DECLINING MARKET MONDAY MAY RESULT FROM MORE SEFLING

Small Loan Decrease Expected To Spur Selling Again

NEW YORK, March 29.—Wall St. has some disappointing news to assimilate when it returns to regular business next Monday and traders are looking forward to a period of cautious readjustment.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank retained its 5 per cent re-discount rate yesterday. This was a favorable factor but was more than offset by a decline of only $144,000,000 in brokerage loans when it was expected that a contraction of from $166,000,000, last week's rise, to $400,000,000 might occur.

It was expected that the small loan decrease would bring in a large number of selling orders over the week-end holiday and many were looking for a declining market Monday.

All financial markets of the country and most of the commodity markets were closed today. The stock exchange and curb here, as well as European markets, will remain closed until Monday, while the Chicago Board of Trade and all livestock markets will re-open Saturday for the short session.

The business recess was welcomed by traders who had worried through the swift changes this week, precipitated by Tuesday's market break and 20 per cent money, and followed by an astonishing recovery which set in late Tuesday and continued through yesterday.

It was pointed out that the market has recovered some fifteen points in the average for thirty representative industrials in this spirited rally of Wednesday and Thursday. That was considered too rapid a comeback just as the decline was apparently overdone.

Inasmuch as the rise in loans of a week ago was not wiped out, the stock was looking for further pressure from the federal reserve board. The board is convinced that the collateral loan total must be curtailed so that business can borrow more freely at more reasonable rates.

The method of contracting the huge total of nearly six billion dollars is to force the small margin holders to sell to those who carry stocks on cash.

JENSEN NOT ALOFT LONG ENOUGH

NEW YORK, March 29.—Martin Jensen, the man who stayed aloft eight minutes and twenty seconds longer than any person has ever flown alone, was in the peculiar position today of being unable to claim a world solo endurance record.

The reason was that when he came down at Roosevelt Field yesterday afternoon he had failed to exceed by an hour the record of the late Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, who made his mark at this field a year ago.

Jensen, one of the few pilots to reach Hawaii in the Dole flight from the Pacific coast, went aloft at 6:01:35 a. m., Wednesday. His official landing time yesterday was 5:34:55 p. m.

Temporarily deflated by the long grind so close to the motor, Jensen could not respond to congratulations. Later he reported he had dozed several times during the flight.

Jensen used ordinary gasoline in an attempt to prove that planes can stay up for protracted periods without super-refined fuel. His flight was backed by the Tidewater Oil Company.

CRUSADE AGAINST VICE CONTINUING

STUEBENVILLE, O., March 29.—With city authorities continuing their crusade against bootleggers and vice resorts, Steubenville today waited with bated breath further results.

Raid on houses of ill fame and beer and whiskey emporiums have resulted in the arrest of 101 persons and raiding parties are still scouring the community for twenty additional persons against whom they have evidence.

The latest city-country drive, the result of three weeks of investigation by six private detectives, is the third sensational raid conducted here since the first of the year.

Conditions are such that racketeers are standing on downtown corners offering bets at odds of as high as 5 to 1 that "You can't buy a drink."

A PEN PICTURE OF CHRIST

Ancient Writing Of Publius Lentulus Describes Saviour Of World

(Editor's Note: The exact personal appearance of Jesus Christ always has been the subject of keen interest especially at Easter when the moving story of the crucifixion becomes vivid in the mind of the Christian world. Samuel J. Williams, of Columbus, O., who has been engaged in Biblical research in Palestine, recently completed a search for an authentic physical description of Christ.)

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Only one supposedly contemporary pen-picture of Jesus Christ has been preserved for the modern world. Its authenticity is in question but it has existed for so many centuries that it is largely responsible for the conventional picture of Christ which famous artists have drawn.

This pen-sketch of Christ purports to have been written by one Publius Lentulus, alleged to have been a friend of Pontius Pilate, possibly a minor Roman official in Jerusalem. Lentulus took note of the strange man who went about the city, followed by disciples who called him the Son of God, and forwarded an official report to the authorities at Rome.

The letter is known to have been in existence in the eleventh century at which time it appeared in the writings of St. Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury. Some scholars have held the letter a forgery and deny that such a man as Lentulus ever lived. Nevertheless the description has shaped the mental picture of Christ for the world.

This alleged letter of Lentulus has been found in four languages, all similar except for slight variations of phrase and a difference as to the color of the hair and eyes.

The most striking version appears in "Palestine and the World," by Frank G. Jannaway. It reads: "There has appeared a Man here, in Palestine, who is still in the living, whose power is extraordinary. He has the title of the great prophet; His disciples call Him the Son of God. He raises the dead, and heals all sorts of diseases. He is a tall, well-proportioned man; there is an air of serenity in His countenance, which at once attracts the love and reverence of those who see Him. His hair is the color of new wine; from the roots to His ears, and from thence to His shoulders, it is curled, and falls down to the lowest part of them. Upon the forehead it parts in two, after the manner of the Nazarenes.

"His forehead is flat and fair, His face without any defect, and adorned with a graceful vermilion. His hair is majestic and agreeable. His nose and his mouth are very well proportioned, and his beard is thick and forked, of the color of his hair. His eyes are grey and extremely lively, but in his exhortations and instructions amiable and courteous; there is something wonderfully charming in His face with a mixture of gravity.

"He is never seen to laugh, but He has been observed to weep. He is very straight in stature; His hands are large and spreading, and His arms very beautiful. He talks little, but with great gravity, and is the handsomest man in the world.

In other versions of the letter the hair is described as "the color of a hazel-nut when ripe," and "the color of a walnut when mature." The eyes are variously described as "blue" and "grayish-blue."

QUESTION TRUCK DRIVERS IN SEARCH FOR MISSING KENT BOY

KENT, O., March 29.—Drivers for a Cleveland dry cleaning firm were questioned today in the hope of solving the mysterious disappearance of Edwin Cox, 9, of Brady Lake, from Kent, Wednesday.

Absence of the boy, now missing more than forty hours, has stirred the entire community, and has given rise to fears that he may have been accidentally killed or kidnapped.

He is reported to have been jumping on a light delivery truck, similar to those used by the Cleveland firm and as one of the Cleveland trucks was in the vicinity Wednesday afternoon, it was thought likely that he may have ridden to Cleveland in it.

LA GUARDIA CLAIMS OHIO CONGRESSMAN HAD NO PRIVILEGES

Not Entitled To Freedom Of Port Says Solon

NEW YORK, March 29.—Members of the party of Rep. William M. Morgan of Newark, O., who arrived Monday on the liner Christobal, were not entitled to the freedom of port, according to Rep. F. H. Laguardia of New York who was on the same vessel.

Morgan had said he was delayed because he had forgotten to wire ahead for freedom of the port. Laguardia said his own baggage was searched and that a bottle of whiskey was found by customs men.

"The members of congress aboard the Christobal were not returning to this port as a committee," Laguardia said, "nor had they been on any official business, therefore, they were not entitled to 'free entry' there is, of course, a distinction between free entry and 'courtesy', or the privilege of expediting one's arrival. My own request for an expedite order was denied by the treasury department and my baggage was thoroughly searched.

"The customs men found in my baggage a pint bottle about half filled with rye whiskey. This was, however, a bottle purchased in New York City on prescription. After that was on the list, they threw the bottle back into my bag.

"At Port Au Prince I obtained a quart bottle of Scotch whiskey and six bottles of beer, which I and others consumed aboard."

At the customs office today it was neither denied nor confirmed that Morgan had told customs inspectors that he had a bottle of whiskey when he landed. Morgan denied the report, saying he had "never drunk a drop in my life."

PHONE CALL BLOCKS AKRON JAIL BREAK

AKRON, O., March 29.—A mysterious telephone call to the County Jail last night prevented the escape of twenty juvenile prisoners.

Night Jailor John W. Smith received the call. A woman's voice came over the wire. "Go around to the other side of the church and watch the jail," the voice suggested.

Leaving Deputy J. R. Butler in charge, Smith surveyed the jail windows from behind the German Reformed Church. He saw Troy Golden, 21, sawing at the bars of a window on the top floor.

Awakening Sheriff Jacob Bolinger, Butler slipped quietly into the range and caught Golden in a corner a short distance from the window.

Questioning developed that saws used in the attempted break had been in the jail a year and had been responsible for three of the last four attempted breaks.

It also developed that two men from a trusty range had slipped bolts which let five prisoners into the corridor by outside windows.

ATTORNEY GENERAL ASSIGNS LAWYER TO HOLD EXAMINATION

Accused Deputy in Serious Condition; City Incensed

AURORA, Ill., March 29.—Indignant Aurora or that faction of the citizenry that has openly criticized the secrecy county authorities have draped around the "dry raid killing" of Mrs. Lillian De King today turned hopeful eyes toward a special state investigator called to take charge of the inquiry.

The bombardment of criticism aimed at State Attorney George D. Carbery of Kane County that "a fair investigation was not being made," forced the county prosecutor to step aside and ask that a special investigator be appointed.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom notified Kane County officials that Charles W. Hadley, an assistant in his department, would take charge of the investigation and would be present at the inquest called for next Tuesday afternoon. The inquest will be thrown open to the public.

The incensed feeling that has spread throughout the state since raiders stormed the little frame cottage, clubbed Joseph De King with the butt of a shotgun and shot his wife "in self defense," has gathered momentum and promises to continue until some action is taken to appease friends of the victims.

The secretive attitude of county officials caused friends and attorneys of De King who have been making a special investigation, to "take some action."

Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who fired the fatal charge at Mrs. De King in a critical condition in an Elgin hospital today, suffering from a bullet wound in his hip. The bullet was fired by Gerald De King, bright-eyed boy of 12, after he saw his father struck over the head and his mother killed.

The wounded deputy, attending doctors said, probably will not be able to appear at the inquest. The body of the boy was taken to the hospital and might prove fatal. The body of the boy was found in the home which will be used as evidence to justify a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Attorneys for De King, who have conducted a separate investigation, have charged openly that the John Doe warrant used was illegal—that Magistrate John J. Weber's jurisdiction does not extend beyond the city limits of Aurora. The De King home is a short distance outside the city.

Boyd Fairchild, "mystery investigator," who signed the complaint alleging he had bought moonshine at the De King home, has disappeared. County authorities, including Assistant State Attorney Carleton Shults, who ordered the raid, and his chief investigator, Walter Miller, admit they do not know where Fairchild has gone.

CHRISTIANS OF WORLD OBSERVE GOOD FRIDAY

By UNITED PRESS
PRAYERS of the faithful went up throughout the land today—Good Friday.

It was on this day, centuries ago, that Christ was tried before Pontius Pilate, and crucified.

In Catholic churches the mass was exemplified with brief, solemn ritual.

In Protestant churches, special prayers were offered, Cantatas, portraying Christ's tribulations and the glorification of his resurrection will be held tonight.

Tomorrow, at high noon, Lent, the forty-day period exemplifying Christ's fasting in the wilderness, will come to an end.

Easter Sunday—marking the resurrection—will come midst a burst of glory.

Holy Week, the final and most melancholy period of Lent, reached its most solemn stage today.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR APPROPRIATION BY LARGE MAJORITY

Senate Will Vote Next Week; One Amendment Loses

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The general appropriation bill has cleared its first legislative hurdle, the house, and was before the senate today for consideration.

The bill carries $114,865,097.16 for expenses of the state government during 1929 and 1930.

The senate will vote on the measure late next week.

Republican majority members of the house held a two-hour caucus before passing the bill and opposition to certain items was ironed out.

As the result of the caucus, only one amendment was offered and the vote was 113 to 6, five Democrats and one Republican voting "no."

Finance Director Harry D. Silver was called into the caucus to aid house leaders in preparing the way for passage. Silver told the representatives that the bill, as drafted, had the approval of Governor Cooper.

Opposition to the section appropriating $2,000,000 from the general revenue fund for secondary highways, voiced by advocates of an increased gasoline tax, was "steam-rollered" by the administration forces. So was opposition to the "lump sum" appropriation policy, adopted by the finance committee at the request of Director Silver.

The caucus ended with the Republican majority committed to accept it without changing a single item.

The amendment submitted was presented by Rep. Ray G. Carpenter, Seneca County, who sought to take on the $550,000 appropriation for a new gymnasium at Ohio State University and to transfer this money to the welfare department for salaries and wages for the two year period.

"The university can build a new gymnasium with the receipts from football games in two years, if they need it," he declared.

"If the state has this much to spend for a gymnasium, it ought to use the money to pay guards at state institutions adequate salaries and provide adequate and competent care for the state's unfortunate wards."

Opposing the amendment, Rep. Grady Ward, Columbus, told the house, the welfare department had been given more money than Welfare Director Griswold had asked for and that Carpenter's plea for the department was not justified.

ANONYMOUS LETTER WRITER SAYS HORST BOY KILLED BY AUTO

"Liquor Runner" Says Body Thrown In River At Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—Police today placed little credence in the letter received by the Ohio State Journal, signed "Liquor Runner," saying the body of 4-year-old Melvin Horst of Orrville was at the bottom of a river here, wrapped in a blanket, bound with rope and weighted down with stones.

The letter was received on the heels of the conviction and imprisonment of Elias Arnold, 55, and his son, Arthur, 17, of Orrville, who were accused of stealing the lad.

Melvin disappeared on the evening of December 27. His uncle, Marshal Roy Horst of Orrville, had arrested the elder Arnold on bootlegging charges and the state charged the Arnolds stole the boy as revenge.

The letter recounts that on the evening of Dec. 27, "Liquor Runner" and three comrades passed through Orrville with a load of liquor. It continues saying a little boy ran in front of their car and was killed.

Then, the letter goes on, "Liquor Runner" and his companions picked the child up and brought him to Columbus because they feared that if they left the body lying in the road they would be trailed and captured with their load of liquor.

A letter written in a similar vein, was received several weeks ago by the Cleveland Press. This letter said Melvin's body would be found in Crystal Lake at Akron. The lake was dragged, without avail.

Chief of Detectives Shellenbarger pointed to several flaws in "Liquor Runners" missive. The river in which Melvin's body is supposed to be, was not named and the tone of the letter apparently was intended to lead authorities to believe the writer is illiterate.

The missive says the Arnolds were innocent. It adds that Junior Hanna, 8, one of Melvin's playmates who testified he saw the Arnolds entice Melvin into their yard, lied. The letter begins by saying that "Liquor Runner" and his comrades decided not to say anything until they saw how the trial of the Arnolds turned out.

Elias Arnold entered the state penitentiary here Wednesday. His son was confined in the state reformatory at Mansfield on the same day.

Detective Shellenbarger said local police would not draw the rivers until they were given tangible information as to where the body might be found.

The letter was posted in Columbus Wednesday night.

STUDENT BETTER

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The condition of Russell B. McNeil, 23, of Kenton, Ohio State University honor student who was injured in a fall at the administration building, was improved today and physicians predicted rapid recovery.

McNeil was injured when he lost his balance and fell fifteen feet over a balustrade.

COURT GRANTS JURY TRIAL FOR GIRL SERVING LIFE SENTENCE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 29.—The court of appeals today ruled that Ruth Livermore, 22-year-old school teacher who was sentenced to life in the Marysville reformatory for burglary, is entitled to a jury trial.

The decision reverses Common Pleas Judge David H. Thomas of Marietta, who sentenced both Ruth and her common-law husband, Lester, after the latter confessed the robbery and denied his wife was implicated.

Several weeks ago, in appealing for a trial by jury, the girl-bride charged she was tortured into making a confession.

The court remanded the case to the state penitentiary at Columbus.

The sentence aroused statewide comment and several newspapers began a campaign to obtain leniency for Ruth.

The court of appeals cited that Mrs. Livermore, after pleading guilty, sought to change her plea and stand trial. The jurists then implied that they knew of no precedent where a person was denied the right of change of plea.

HOUSE BABIES LEAD FOES AGAINST MALT BILL; IS REPORTED

Temperance Measure Passes Committee Hearing

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The Pimper anti-malt bill was back in the house of representatives today for action.

Temperance committee reported the bill for passage late yesterday after a secret meeting presided over by Mrs. W. F. Slagle, Youngstown representative.

Although the meeting was secret, newspapermen learned of it and attended.

The fight against the measure was led by the three "baby" members of the house—Rep. Lawrence A. Kane, Cincinnati; Ernest J. Bohn, Cleveland; and Louis Nippert, Cincinnati.

As the session opened Rep. Willard Piper, author of the bill, explained the measure's provisions.

Rep. Kane assailed it, declaring the Crabbie act covers offenses outlined in the anti-malt bill.

The measure would make persons selling malt for home brew manufacture subject to heavy fines.

Rep. W. L. Guard of Urbana, coming to the bill's defense, said the measure "would make it more difficult for the person who is making liquor in the home."

Rep. Bohn demanded to know whether there was a popular demand for the bill or whether it was one of Rep. Piper's "whims."

Mrs. Slagle responded that she could answer for 46,000 women who were for the measure.

Rep. Piper said he introduced the bill at the request of his constituents.

COMMISSIONER FREED

POMEROY, O., March 29.—Irving Karr, chairman of the board of Meigs County commissioners, accused of accepting a $240 bribe in connection with a gravel contract, was acquitted here late yesterday by a jury which deliberated only forty minutes. The case was given to the jury at 1:40 p. m.

SENATOR WILL SEEK INVESTIGATION BY SENATE COMMITTEE

King Would Block Mails To Promoters Of "Gambling"

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A congressional investigation of the sensational price propping of the stock exchange was demanded today by Senator William H. King of Utah who announced he would introduce a resolution at the coming special session of congress calling for such an inquiry.

King will also present a bill proposing to prevent federal reserve banks from lending any money for marginal transactions. He believes some steps should be taken to prevent such activities as have characterized trading on the exchange during the last few days.

In this belief he is endorsed by an influential group of senators, many of them former bankers. The situation was discussed at length during the last session of congress when such prominent banking authorities as Glass of Virginia and Edge of New Jersey suggested some action should be taken.

"I have prepared for introduction a resolution providing an investigation by the senate banking and currency committee of the activities and causes of recent violent fluctuations of the stock exchange," King said in a statement given the United Press.

"It is obvious that credit facilities have been improperly used to influence the market, causing losses of millions of dollars to citizens."

"In an investigation four years ago we learned that 80 per cent of the trading in the market was through marginal transactions. In other words 80 per cent was strictly gambling because the traders had no intention of purchasing stock outright for investment purposes."

"I have prepared a bill for introduction along with the resolution, denying the use of the mails to promoters encouraging this gambling and I have also prepared a bill to prevent the federal reserve banks from lending their funds to such purposes."

King's view was in part endorsed by former Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who in an interview said the foundation of American prosperity is threatened by the attitude of the federal reserve board toward brokers' loans.

A sharp $144,000,000 decline in loans to brokers by reserve system member banks for the week ending yesterday clearly reflected the recession in stock market activity.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 29.—Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of the seventh Illinois district, is facing prosecution for violating prohibition laws, it became known today.

The indictment was returned last October by a federal grand jury here and capias for his arrest has been sent to Chicago.

Michaelson is charged with possessing liquor smuggled into the United States from Cuba. He and a party of friends made a tour of Cuba last September and re-entered the United States at Key West. The baggage of the congressman bore an "expedite order" which gave Michaelson freedom of the port.

Michaelson proceeded to Jacksonville. Here it was charged, his suitcase sprang a leak and state officers seized it and turned it over to federal authorities.

According to the federal authorities, the bag contained liquor and a grand jury indicted Michaelson at the request of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general.

The incensed feeling that has spread throughout the state since raiders stormed the little frame cottage, clubbed Joseph De King with the butt of a shotgun and shot his wife "in self defense," has gathered momentum and promises to continue until some action is taken to appease friends of the victims.

The secretive attitude of county officials caused friends and attorneys of De King who have been making a special investigation, to "take some action."

Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who fired the fatal charge at Mrs. De King in a critical condition in an Elgin hospital today, suffering from a bullet wound in his hip. The bullet was fired by Gerald De King, bright-eyed boy of 12, after he saw his father struck over the head and his mother killed.

The wounded deputy, attending doctors said, probably will not be able to appear at the inquest. The doctors who operated upon Smith said they feared to amputate the leg as the wound was too close to the body and might prove fatal.

A gallon of wine was found in the home which will be used as evidence to justify a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Attorneys for De King, who have conducted a separate investigation, have charged openly that the John Doe warrant used was illegal—that Magistrate John J. Weber's jurisdiction does not extend beyond the city limits of Aurora. The De King home is a short distance outside the city.

Boyd Fairchild, "mystery investigator," who signed the complaint alleging he had bought moonshine at the De King home, has disappeared. County authorities, including Assistant State's Attorney Carleton Shults, who ordered the raid, and his chief investigator, Walter Miller, admit they do not know where Fairchild has gone.

Authorities are prepared to guard against any demonstrations tomorrow when the funeral of Mrs. De King will be held.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR APPROPRIATION BY LARGE MAJORITY

Senate Will Vote Next Week; One Amendment Loses

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The general appropriation bill has cleared its first legislative hurdle, the house, and was before the senate today for consideration.

The bill carries $114,865,977.16 for expenses of the state government during 1929 and 1930.

The senate will vote on the measure late next week.

Republican majority members of the house held a two-hour caucus before passing the bill and opposition to certain items was ironed out.

As the result of the caucus, only one amendment was offered and the vote was 113 to 6, five Democrats and one Republican voting "no."

Finance Director Harry D. Silver was called into the caucus to aid house leaders in preparing the way for passage. Silver told the representatives that the bill, as drafted, had the approval of Governor Cooper.

Opposition to the section appropriating $2,000,000 from the general revenue fund for secondary highways, voiced by advocates of an increased gasoline tax, was "steam-rolled" by the administration forces. So was opposition to the "hump sum" appropriation policy, adopted by the finance committees at the request of Director Silver.

The caucus ended with the Republican majority committed to accept it without changing a single item.

The one amendment submitted was presented by Rep. Ray G. Carpenter, Seneca County, who sought to take on the $550,000 appropriation for a new gymnasium at Ohio State University and to transfer this money to the welfare department for salaries and wages for the two year period.

"The university can build a new gymnasium with the receipts from football games in two years, if they need it," he declared.

"If the state has this much to spend for a gymnasium, it ought to use the money to pay guards at state institutions adequate salaries and provide adequate and competent care for the state's unfortunate wards."

Opposing the amendment, Rep. Grant Ward, Columbus, told the house, the welfare department had been given more money than Welfare Director Griswold had asked for and that Carpenter's plea for the department was not justified.

COURT GRANTS JURY TRIAL FOR GIRL SERVING LIFE SENTENCE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 29.—The court of appeals today ruled that Ruth Livermore, 22-year-old school teacher who was sentenced to life in the Marysville reformatory for burglary, is entitled to a jury trial.

The decision reverses Common Pleas Judge David H. Thomas of Marietta who sentenced both Ruth and her common-law husband, Lester, after the latter confessed the robbery and denied his wife was implicated.

Several weeks ago, in appealing for a trial by jury, the girl-bridge charged she was tortured into making a confession. The court denied the motion and Ruth was remanded to the reformatory.

Livermore was taken to the state penitentiary at Columbus. The sentence aroused statewide comment and several newspapers began a campaign to obtain leniency for Ruth.

The court of appeals cited that Mrs. Livermore, after pleading guilty, sought to change her plea and stand trial. The jurists then implied that they knew of no precedent where a person was denied the right of change of plea.

ANONYMOUS LETTER WRITER SAYS HORST BOY KILLED BY AUTO

"Liquor Runner" Says
Body Thrown In River
At Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—Police today placed little credence in the letter received by the Ohio State Journal, signed "Liquor Runner," saying the body of 4-year-old Melvin Horst of Orrville was at the bottom of a river here, wrapped in a blanket, bound with rope and weighted down with stones.

The letter was received on the heels of the conviction and imprisonment of Elias Arnold, 55, and his son, Arthur, 17, of Orrville, who were accused of stealing the lad.

Melvin disappeared on the evening of Dec. 27, "Liquor Runner" and three comrades passed through Orrville with a load of liquor. It continues saying a little boy ran in front of their car and was killed.

Then, the letter goes on, "Liquor Runner" and his companions picked the child up and brought him to Columbus because they feared that if they left the body lying in the road they would be trailed and captured with their load of liquor.

A letter written in a similar vein, was received several weeks ago by the Cleveland Press. This letter said Melvin's body would be found in Crystal Lake at Akron. The lake was dragged, without avail.

Chief of Detectives Shellenbarger pointed to several flaws in "Liquor Runner's" missive. The river in which Melvin's body is supposed to be, was not named and the tone of the letter apparently was intended to lead authorities to believe the writer is illiterate.

The missive says the Arnolds were innocent. It adds that Junior Hanna, 8, one of Melvin's playmates who testified he saw the Arnolds entice Melvin into their yard, lied. The letter begins by saying that "Liquor Runner" and his comrades decided not to say anything until they saw how the trial of the Arnolds turned out.

Elias Arnold entered the state penitentiary here Wednesday. His son was confined in the state reformatory at Mansfield on the same day.

Detective Shellenbarger said local police would not drag the rivers until they were given tangible information as to where the body might be found.

The letter was posted in Columbus Wednesday night.

HOUSE BABIES LEAD FOES AGAINST MALT BILL; IS REPORTED

Temperance Measure
Foes Committee
Hearing

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The Piper anti-malt bill was back in the house of representatives today for action.

Temperance committee reported the bill for passage late yesterday after a secret meeting presided over by Mrs. W. F. Slagle, Youngstown representative.

Although the meeting was secret newspapermen learned of it and attended.

The fight against the measure was led by the three "baby" members of the house—Rep. Lawrence A. Kane, Cincinnati; Ernest J. Bohn, Cleveland; and Louis Nippert, Cincinnati.

As the session opened Rep. Willard Piper, author of the bill, explained the measure's provisions.

Rep. Kane assailed it, declaring the Crabbe act covers offenses outlined in the anti-malt bill.

The measure would make persons selling malt for home brew manufacture subject to heavy fines.

Rep. W. L. Guard of Urbana, coming to the bill's defense, said the measure "would make it more difficult for the person who is making liquor in the home."

Rep. Bohn demanded to know whether there was a popular demand for the bill or whether it was one of Rep. Piper's "whims."

Mrs. Slagle responded that she could answer for 46,000 women who were for the measure.

Rep. Piper said he introduced the bill at the request of his constituents.

COMMISSIONER FREED

POMEROY, O., March 29.—Irving Kari, chairman of the board of Meigs County commissioners, accused of accepting a $240 bribe in connection with a gravel contract, was acquitted here late yesterday by a jury which deliberated only forty minutes. The case was given to the jury at 1:40 p. m.

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, in appealing for a trial by jury, the girl-bridge charged she was tortured into making a confession. The court denied the motion and Ruth was remanded to the reformatory.

Livermore was taken to the state penitentiary at Columbus. The sentence aroused statewide comment and several newspapers began a campaign to obtain leniency for Ruth.

SENATOR WILL SEEK INVESTIGATION BY SENATE COMMITTEE

King Would Block Mails
To Promoters Of
"Gambling"

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A congressional investigation of the sensational price propping of the stock exchange was demanded today by Senator William H. King of Utah who announced he would introduce a resolution at the coming special session of congress calling for such an inquiry.

King will also present a bill proposing to prevent federal reserve banks from lending any money for marginal transactions. He believes some steps should be taken to prevent such activities as have characterized trading on the exchange during the last few days.

In this belief he is endorsed by an influential group of senators, many of them former bankers. The situation was discussed at length during the last session of congress when such prominent banking authorities as Glass of Virginia and Edge of New Jersey suggested some action should be taken.

"I have prepared for introduction a resolution providing an investigation by the senate banking and currency committee of the activities and causes of recent violent fluctuations of the stock exchange," King said in a statement given to the United Press.

"It is obvious that credit facilities have been improperly used to influence the market, causing losses of millions of dollars to citizens."

"In an investigation four years ago we learned that 80 per cent of the trading in the market was through marginal transactions. In other words 80 per cent was strictly gambling because the traders had no intention of purchasing stock outright for investment purposes."

"I have prepared a bill for introduction along with the resolution, denying the use of the mails to promoters, encouraging this gambling and I have also prepared a bill to prevent the federal reserve banks from lending their funds to such purposes."

King's view was in part endorsed by former Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who in an interview said the foundation of American prosperity is threatened by the attitude of the federal reserve board toward broker's loans.

A sharp $144,000,000 decline in loans to brokers by reserve system member banks for the week ending yesterday clearly reflected the recession in stock market activity.

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, in appealing for a trial by jury, the girl-bridge charged she was tortured into making a confession. The court denied the motion and Ruth was remanded to the reformatory.

Livermore was taken to the state penitentiary at Columbus. The sentence aroused statewide comment and several newspapers began a campaign to obtain leniency for Ruth.

A NEW SIGNIFICANCE OF EASTER

We never understood the meaning of Easter until our beloved daughter was called to her heavenly home. How we longed to have her come home again! But that longing was not satisfied. Only those who have "loved and lost awhile" can truly understand.

It is very natural to go to the place where that precious body was laid. Easter morning helped us to understand the women who went early to the grave of their Lord, as we too found our way to a sacred mound. They went with flowers as a delicate suggestion of immortal bloom.

The message of our Lord on Easter took on new meaning as we heard him saying again, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me shall never die."

As we returned home our faith in Christ was made stronger, our vision clarified, our holy purposes

EASTER SUNDAY AND WORSHIP

There is a close relationship between Easter Sunday and worship. So universally was the resurrection of Christ commemorated by a religious service of worship, the first day of the week, that by degrees the services of worship observed on the seventh day, the Old Testament Sabbath, were transferred to the first day, now called Sunday.

There is a universal annual observance of Easter, the one big church attendance day of the year, the event of greatest spiritual significance.

There is no reason why the early custom of the weekly Easter service should not be the custom today, namely, meeting every Sunday to worship the resurrected Lord. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH EVERY SUNDAY?

intensified, our motive for Christian service energized.
When a child we were touched by the motto "What is home without a mother," but we are now more deeply impressed by the heart-searching question, "What is home without Christ and a living faith in Him?"—D. Carl Yoder.

ziah said I saw the Lord sitting upon the throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple." The death of the good and able king caused great sorrow; Isaiah turned to God for strength, going to the place of worship where God revealed himself in an unusual manner.

V. 2. "Above him stood the seraphim; each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly." The seraphim were messengers of God. The divine glory was so resplendent that "with twain he covered his face"; covering his feet symbolized modesty; reverence, humility and swift obedience are symbolized by wings.

V. 3. "And one cried to another and said, 'Holy, holy, holy is Jehovah of hosts; the whole earth is full of glory.' Holy character is God's crowning glory; when he reigns the earth is safe.

V. 4. "And the house was filled with smoke." Smoke was a symbol of wrath indicating God's great displeasure of sin.

V. 5. "And then I said, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the king, Jehovah of hosts." The prophet felt himself a part of a sinful people and therefore unqualified to be in the presence of a pure, holy God.

V. 6. "Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar." The prophet's humiliation and confession was his needed preparation for a blessing—the blessing of cleansing for the effective declaration of God's message.

V. 7. "And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, whom will I send and who will go for me? Then I said, 'Here am I, send me.' The next privilege of the prophet was to hear God's voice with its appeal for a messenger to be sent to sinful Israel; it was a challenge to the prophet to undertake a needed and hard task; he responded with profound earnestness.

V. 1. "In the year that King Uziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon the throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple." The death of the good and able king caused great sorrow; Isaiah turned to God for strength, going to the place of worship where God revealed himself in an unusual manner.

the only time for an evangelistic appeal, but it is a good time to take the step into the Christian life. The meaning of each essential step in becoming a Christian must be made clear and the final announcement or open confession must be a natural climax to the onward and upward movement of the soul. Easter service in the Sunday School and church service can be planned to be helpful in making this great decision, the most important of all decisions.

There are many incidental matters that have a good effect in making Easter helpful in developing the Christian life. The decorations consisting of buds and flowers indicative of new life are suggestive of a new spiritual life. Some of the great pictures of the resurrection will add much to the deepening of the resurrection impressions. Some one who knows how to interpret pictures can do much in helping to a higher appreciation of the thought of the artist.

It is very effective to have someone who has been well trained recite the New Testament resurrection story. Much ought to be made of songs and hymns which are easily available.

The Sunday School ought to be a family gathering, especially on this day, every member of the family being in sympathy with the Easter program; it will mean much if parents and older brothers and sisters have been present when forward steps are taken by the younger members of the family; encouragement in every good deed needs to be forthcoming from members of the home, who ought ever to be a source of inspiration in the doing of all that is good.

We never understood the meaning of Easter until our beloved daughter was called to her heavenly home. How we longed to have her come home again! But that longing was not satisfied. Only those who have "loved and lost awhile" can truly understand.

It is very natural to go to the place where that precious body was laid. Easter morning helped us to understand the women who went early to the grave of their Lord, as we too found our way to a sacred mound. They went with spices to anoint their Lord, we with flowers as a delicate suggestion of immortal bloom.

The message of our Lord on Easter took on new meaning as we heard him saying again, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me shall never die."

As we returned home our faith in Christ was made stronger, our vision clarified, our holy purposes

EASTER SUNDAY AND WORSHIP

There is a close relationship between Easter Sunday and worship. So universally was the resurrection of Christ commemorated by a religious service of worship, the first day of the week, that by degrees the services of worship observed on the seventh day, the Old Testament Sabbath, were transferred to the first day, now called Sunday.

There is a universal annual observance of Easter, the one big church attendance day of the year, the event of greatest spiritual significance.

There is no reason why the early custom of the weekly Easter service should not be the custom today, namely, meeting every Sunday to worship the resurrected Lord. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH EVERY SUNDAY?

intensified, our motive for Christian service energized.
When a child we were touched by the motto "What is home without a mother," but we are now more deeply impressed by the heart-searching question, "What is home without Christ and a living faith in Him?"—D. Carl Yoder.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What was the office of a prophet?
2. What were the characteristics of Isaiah, the prophet?
3. How account for Isaiah's vision?
4. How distinguish between a true vision and an idle fancy?
5. When is a government safe?
6. What may the church do today when wrong steps are taken by our government?

Clericus says, "Great leaders have been praying men and women. Even when death seemed near and failure certain, they went to God in fervid prayer, in great penitence. Our conviction is that their prayers were answered and achievement followed."

LESSON PRAYER
"In the midst of sin, help us to see and hear God and give us the courage to present God's message in the more trying places."

BOOK REVIEW
PSYCHOLOGY AND THE DAY'S WORK by Edgar James Swift, Charles Scribner's Sons deals with the impracticability of the fanatical methods that have been used in the application of psychology to business and the practicability of common sense and human methods applied to every aspect of business life. It is written in a popular vein to appeal to every reader.

Although no prophet ranks above Isaiah and no prophecy is more inspiring than his, yet of his life we know but little. Two notes sound forth in his preaching, "the inevitable results of sin," as a punishment of God, and the "mercy and the forgiveness of God in case of repentance."

V. 1. "In the year that King Uziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon the throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple." The death of the good and able king caused great sorrow; Isaiah turned to God for strength, going to the place of worship where God revealed himself in an unusual manner.

V. 2. "Above him stood the seraphim; each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly." The seraphim were messengers of God. The divine glory was so resplendent that "with twain he covered his face"; covering his feet symbolized modesty; reverence, humility and swift obedience are symbolized by wings.

V. 3. "And one cried to another and said, 'Holy, holy, holy is Jehovah of hosts; the whole earth is full of glory.' Holy character is God's crowning glory; when he reigns the earth is safe.

V. 4. "And the house was filled with smoke." Smoke was a symbol of wrath indicating God's great displeasure of sin.

V. 5. "And then I said, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the king, Jehovah of hosts." The prophet felt himself a part of a sinful people and therefore unqualified to be in the presence of a pure, holy God.

V. 6. "Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar." The prophet's humiliation and confession was his needed preparation for a blessing—the blessing of cleansing for the effective declaration of God's message.

V. 7. "And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, whom will I send and who will go for me? Then I said, 'Here am I, send me.'" The next privilege of the prophet was to hear God's voice with its appeal for a messenger to be sent to sinful Israel; it was a challenge to the prophet to undertake a needed and hard task; he responded with profound earnestness.

V. 1. "Thus saith Jehovah set thy house in order: for thou shalt die and not live." Hezekiah was one of the best kings of his day and he like the poorest man came to his last day on earth; he had many duties that needed attention but the one great duty was that preparation to meet God in peace.

V. 2. "Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed unto Jehovah." No man is too good or too good to pray. There come times when it is plainly seen that the only help comes from God. Wisdom calls for a recognition of the need of God constantly and that the individual live a life of prayer. Often illis are turned aside by God's intervention. God hears and answers prayers.

The Better Way
EASTER IN THE EARLY CHURCH

Very great honor indeed was this honor paid to the Feast of the Resurrection by the early Christians. We read that it was regarded by them as the crown and head of all festivals, although as a religious observance, Easter was not distinguished from other Sundays except by the vastness of the congregation and the dignity of the service.

Gregory, who was bishop of Nysa in 380 A. D. draws a vivid picture of the joyous crowds who by their dress and their devout attendance at church sought to so honor the festival. He says, "All labor ceased, all trades were suspended; the husbandman threw down his spade and plow and put on his holiday attire; the tavern keepers left their gain in order to be present at the Easter service; the roads were empty of travellers and the sea of sailors for all tried to be home on this great day. All Christians assembled everywhere as members of one family; the poor man dressed like the rich and the rich wore his gayest and brightest attire, whilst those who had no good clothes of their own borrowed of their neighbors. Even the little children put on their new clothes and were bright and happy."

We would therefore remark that it is evident that the present custom of wearing new and bright clothes on Easter is at least fifteen centuries old.—Selected the only time for an evangelistic appeal, but it is a good time to take the step into the Christian life. The meaning of each essential step in becoming a Christian must be made clear and the final announcement or open confession must be a natural climax to the onward and upward movement of the soul. Easter service in the Sunday School and church service can be planned to be helpful in making this great decision, the most important of all decisions.

There are many incidental matters that have a good effect in making Easter helpful in developing the Christian life. The decorations consisting of buds and flowers indicative of new life are suggestive of a new spiritual life. Some of the great pictures of the resurrection will add much to the deepening of the resurrection impressions. Some one who knows how to interpret pictures can do much in helping to a higher appreciation of the thought of the artist.

It is very effective to have someone who has been well trained recite the New Testament resurrection story. Much ought to be made of songs and hymns which are easily available.

YOUNGSTERS TO GIVE MUSICAL AT CHURCH.

Prof. Charles D. Beachler, of the Dayton Institute of Music, will present some of his Xenia pupils and will appear personally in violin solos when the primary department of the United Brethren Church gives a musical entertainment in the church dormitory next Thursday evening, April 4.

The youngsters are arranging the entertainment as a "treat" for adults of the city. Betty Bales will sing "Mighty Like a Rose" and Jane Lou Hurley will sing "Red Containers" as features of the evening's program and Mrs. Tom Thumb, recent bride in one of the early spring nuptials, is scheduled for a violin solo, it is announced.

Old time fiddlers will also appear on the program.

ENTERTAINS FOR MISS MIRIAM POWELL

Miss Doris Watkins, Washington St., entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon sixteen classmates, honoring Miss Miriam Powell, who is moving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Powell, S. Detroit St., to near Los Angeles, Calif., next week.

The affair was in the form of an Easter party, with games, music, and contests enjoyed during the afternoon. Lovely refreshments were served with yellow and white appointments.

The girls presented Miriam with a pocketbook as a farewell gift.

BEAVER CHOIR TO PRESENT CANTATA

Sunday evening, March 31, at 7:45 the choir of Beaver Reformed Church will present "Jesus Lives," an Easter cantata by Charles H. Gabriel. Members of the choir are as follows: sopranos, Mrs. Raymond Tobias, Mrs. John Munger, Mrs. George Sugden, Misses Helen Ankeney, Ruth Miller, and Helen Jones; altos, Mrs. Nelson Ankeney, Mrs. Alfred Neff, Misses Nelle Ankeney, Thelma Barth, Jean Fair, tenors, Messrs. George Sugden, Nelson Ankeney, Alfred Neff, Arthur Leeming; basses, Messrs. Albert Ankeney, John Munger, D. O. Jones and Raymond Tobias.

AUXILIARY TO HOLD BIRTHDAY DINNER

The Clara Allen Auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church will hold its annual birthday dinner at 6:30 Monday evening in the basement of the church.

The first auxiliary and Home Guards branch of the mother society will be guests at the affair. Mrs. E. C. Turley, of Dayton, will be the principal speaker.

Each person attending please bring her own dishes.

READINGS FEATURE COMMUNITY MEETING

A group of readings by Mrs. J. R. Mason featured the meeting of the White Chapel Community Club at the school house Thursday evening.

Little Jean Mason and Jane Short also contributed readings to the evening's program and the Union Orchestra played several delightful selections. Supper followed the program. A quilt made by the Ladies Aid Society, which was scheduled to be sold at auction at the meeting, was not sold.

The Orient Hill P. T. A. will meet at the school, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A good program is being arranged consisting of a talk on the summer round up of children entering school. The children of the first and second grades will entertain. A large attendance is desired.

Miss Hester Creamer and little niece, June Reid, Hill St., are spending this week with their aunt, Mrs. Charles Crone, Washington C. H.

Miss Mary Anna Wolford, student at Miami University, will spend her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, Hoop Road.

Mr. Robert Morton, student at Ohio Wesleyan, will arrive here Friday evening to spend the Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Morton, N. King St.

Mrs. C. L. Weaver, Wilmington Pike, is improving after being ill for several days, suffering from diabetes.

ON AIR AGAIN

"The Two Helens," Misses Helen Ford and Helen Hurley, local radio entertainers, will broadcast from station WSMK, Dayton, Tuesday night from 10 to 10:30.

Why some children are peevish.

Happy disposition easily recovered.

Some children are liable to get bilious and irritable, just as grown-ups often do. It is easily remedied. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup" and in a few hours the bowels will move, the liver will be relieved and all pent-up bile and sour, constipated waste removed, leaving the system clean and sweet and the child bright and energetic again.

"California Fig Syrup" banishes biliousness and constipation, regulates the bowels and insures pure blood, a clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and aids sturdy growth.

To get the genuine California Fig Syrup, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, look for the name "California" on the package. Adv.

MR. AND MRS. GORDIN

Mr. Glen Hagler, former Xenian, manager of Geyer's Shop in Wilmington, is suffering from blood poisoning in one foot, which developed from infection following a scratch on the foot. He is compelled to use crutches, but is recovering. Mr. Fred Murphy, assistant manager of the shop, is also on crutches as the result of blood poisoning from a similar infection in the foot.

Mr. Ernest Blackburn, Scoutmaster of Troop 45, Boy Scouts, addressed the Scout leaders training class at Wilmington Thursday evening on "Scout Signaling."

Mrs. I. W. Clouse, N. Detroit St., who has been ill with quinsy for some time, is improving.

Mrs. Herbert Davis, S. Detroit St., arrived home last Tuesday after spending most of the winter with her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Patterson, New York City.

Mrs. Jane Bell, Messenger Apts., will have as her week end guests, her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Henry and her son "Buddy" of Fort Wayne, Ind.

All members and friends of the Unity Bible class will please notice that the regular meeting night has been changed from Tuesday night to Monday night at 7:30.

Misses Irene Parrett, Elizabeth Bickett, and Mary Ballantyne, students at Western College for Women Oxford, will arrive here Friday evening, to spend their Easter vacation with their parents.

Miss Evelyn Perrill, student at Adrian College, Adrian, Mich., has been spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perrill, N. King St.

Little Catherine Reynolds, has returned home after spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. Ralph Alexander of Spring Valley.

Messrs. Edward Higgins and William Clemans, students at Miami University, Oxford, will spend their Easter vacation here with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Gordin were completely surprised when a lovely dinner was given in their honor, celebrating their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary, at their home on N. Detroit St., Thursday noon.

Relatives and friends gathered at the Gordin home for the anniversary dinner, commemorating the nuptials that occurred March 28, 1871. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordin enjoy reasonably good health and Mr. Gordin, long a public official in Madison County, is still active as one of the proprietors of the Northside Grocery, N. Detroit St. Many friends sent congratulations and felicitations on the occasion of the fifty-seventh anniversary.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordin come from old and prominent pioneer families of Revolutionary stock. Mr. Gordin was born in Springfield, 1833, but moved to near South Solon, Madison County, when a

Their radiant faces show a long life of usefulness and interest in civic and public affairs that still exists.

Those attending the dinner were The Rev. and Mrs. H. B. McElree, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Nagley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Gordin and daughter Pauline, all of Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rowand, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rowand and sons Gordin and Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rowand and son Rex, all of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Port William; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brock and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brock, of South Solon.

Mr. J. J. Wolford, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, near Xenia, who will receive his doctor's degree in geology from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., this spring, has accepted a position as instructor in geology at his alma mater, Miami University, Oxford.

YOUNGSTERS TO GIVE MUSICAL AT CHURCH.

Prof. Charles D. Beachler, of the Dayton Institute of Music, will present some of his Xenia pupils and will appear personally in violin solos when the primary department of the United Brethren Church gives a musical entertainment in the church dormitory next Thursday evening, April 4.

The youngsters are arranging the entertainment as a "treat" for adults of the city. Betty Bales will sing "Mighty Like a Rose" and Jane Lou Will sing "Red Containers" as features of the evening's program and Mrs. Tom Thumb, recent bride in one of the early spring nuptials, is scheduled for a violin solo. It is announced. Old time fiddlers will also appear on the program.

ENTERTAINS FOR MISS MIRIAM POWELL

Miss Doris Watkins, Washington St., entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon sixteen classmates, honoring Miss Miriam Powell, who is moving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Powell, S. Detroit St., to near Los Angeles, Calif., next week.

The affair was in the form of an Easter party, with games, music, and contests enjoyed during the afternoon. Lovely refreshments were served with yellow and white appointments.

The girls presented Miriam with a pocketbook as a farewell gift.

BEAVER CHOIR TO PRESENT CANTATA

Sunday evening, March 31, at 7:45 the choir of Beaver Reformed Church will present "Jesus Lives," an Easter cantata by Charles H. Gabriel. Members of the choir are as follows: sopranos, Mrs. Raymond Tobias, Mrs. John Munger, Mrs. George Sugden, Misses Helen Ankeney, Ruth Munger and Helen Jones; altos, Mrs. Nelson Ankeney, Mrs. Alfred Neff, Misses Nello Ankeney, Thelma Barth, Jean Fair, tenors, Messrs. George Sugden, Nelson Ankeney, Alfred Neff, Arthur Leeming; basses, Messrs. Albert Ankeney, John Munger, D. O. Jones and Raymond Tobias.

AUXILIARY TO HINDER BIRTHDAY DINNER

The Clara Allen Auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church will hold its annual birthday dinner at 6:30 Monday evening in the basement of the church.

The first auxiliary and Home Guards branch of the mother society will be guests at the affair. Mrs. E. C. Turley, of Dayton, will be the principal speaker.

Each person attending please bring her own dishes.

READINGS FEATURE COMMUNITY MEETING

A group of readings by Mrs. J. B. Mason featured the meeting of the White Chapel Community Club at the school house Thursday evening.

Little Jean Mason and Jane Short also contributed readings to the evening's program and the Union Orchestra played several delightful selections. Supper followed the program. A quilt made by the Ladies Aid Society, which was scheduled to be sold at auction at the meeting, was not sold.

The Orient Hill P. T. A. will meet at the school, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A good program is being arranged consisting of a talk on the summer round up of children entering school. The children of the first and second grades will entertain. A large attendance is desired.

Miss Hester Creamer and little niece, June Reid, Hill St., are spending this week with their aunt, Mrs. Charles Crone, Washington C. H.

Miss Mary Anna Wolford, student at Miami University, will spend her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, Hoop Road.

Mr. Robert Morton, student at Ohio Wesleyan, will arrive here Friday evening to spend the Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Morton, N. King St.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SIN AND DEATH—As I live, saith the Lord God, Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine; the soul that sinneth, it shall die.—Ezekiel 18:3,4

EVIDENCE OF ABILITY

A contributor to a radical weekly points out that the first millionaire president of the United States has given six of the ten portfolios in his cabinet to men whose financial rating is stated in seven figures or better. "A millionaire cabinet," writes the champion of the proletariat, "will cast a glamor over the progress of the American people toward their new feudal allegiance." What is worse it may "do violence to American traditions of Jeffersonian simplicity."

A more honest critic would at least have mentioned that Mr. Hoover and four of his six colleagues are what Americans like to know and honor, self-made men. Only two members of the cabinet were born with silver spoons in their mouths and they have added substance and lustre to their inheritances by their own industry. One of these has already served in the cabinet for eight years, with conspicuous ability and devotion to the public interest.

A government should reflect the genius and condition of the people. While we were a nation of wood hewers and drawers of water "Jeffersonian simplicity" was well enough, although nine points of it were studied sham and demagoguery. The tradition of this simplicity survives, as pots of herbs have in English courtrooms to ward off the plague; but it hardly fits the wealthiest nation in the world. Washington was reputed in his day to be the richest man in the country. The majority of the men who dominated the government, down to the proletarian revolution headed by Andrew Jackson, were men of substance, who today would probably be numbered among our 15,000 millionaires. They, too, established a tradition, which we are now reverting to.

The fact that a man has wrested a million dollars from a niggardly and close-fisted world does not necessarily remove him from sympathy with his fellowmen, who are all trying to emulate his example; but it does give promise that he will handle the large problems with which the cabinet has to deal with more competence than may be expected from a man whose contacts with similar problems in private life have been a series of complete or comparative failures.

In Europe they are beginning to use air trains made up of a plane and trailers. It will be terrible at night to have an air freight switching for hours directly overhead.

NEW KIND OF INSANITY
An Ohio girl, 18 years old, fell in convulsions on the street after a 24-hour dance marathon. Dancing contests among the "people of moronia" go on for days. Bodies and so-called minds are worn out. Doubtless these people are the victims of a form of insanity. Doctors will find a name for it soon. Any way, it is easily recognizable.

European Rotary clubs announce that a shipload of club members from countries abroad will attend the international convention of the order in Dallas, Tex., in May. This will not be a peace ship for humorists and funny pictures. Here will be a real peace mission. Rotary International, penetrating the borders of nearly all civilized countries, carrying ideas of international friendship to the leaders of all nations, will have a profound effect on the movement to keep peace in this world.

ANOTHER EASTER OFFERING (As The Anti-Leaguers See It)

How to Achieve Beauty
BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beauty and romance belong together. And in the romantic days of the European courts, from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, beauty thrived and flourished. French queens and English queens, all the famous or notorious mistresses of royalty and other prominent women, worshipped at beauty's shrine with some measure of success. This is the age of the "beauty secret," of lards and face creams, of pomades and paint, of powder and periwig.

Strange concoctions, blends of all kinds of ingredients, found their way into the beauty treatment of these industrious seekers. One of old French tradition was the following: Almond paste, cocoa butter, lemon and vanilla. Although it sounds to our modern ears more like a palatable dessert, this face cream was considered of great value to complexion beauty. And when we remember that almond meal is a fine cleanser, that lemon is a bleach, and that cocoa butter is among the ingredients of many so-called skinfoods, we are less inclined to scoff.

The lovely Mary Stuart, Queen of Scotland, bathed her delicate skin in wine to keep it fair. And we are told that it was so transparent in texture that when she blushed, the blood flowed "like a red flame" up her bosom and neck.

Pauline Bonaparte bathed in milk. History remarks that the bath became her mania. "She had begun with two a week—each took ten pints of milk, and cost six francs—but the habit encroached till she could not do with less than one a day, especially when traveling."

Ninon de Lenclos took oatmeal baths. She also devised a system of exercises for her face and body which helped to preserve their youthful contour almost until the year of her death at the age of 90.

Mme. Tallien washed in raspberry juice, to bleach and cleanse her complexion, while the fair Diane de Poitiers used only cold rain water, scorning a more artificial means to radiant beauty of skin. Her complexion, nevertheless, was brilliant. But for the rest, historians claim, the distinctive character of her aspect was health, "not loveliness." To us it seems not strange that health and cleanliness should contribute remarkably to her charm. The people of Diane's time, however, in sixteenth century France, bathed infrequently. And to them and those who followed them, her morning bath in cold rain water was a mysterious beauty secret.

After her bath, which she took at five o'clock, Diane rode and hunted for several hours. Then she returned to her bed to rest and read until luncheon. Her meals were light but substantial. In short, she followed a simple health regime to preserve her youthfulness.

The essential elements of this era's beauty secrets have been kept in modern use. Many delightful creams and perfumes, a simple health regime such as Diane's, supplemented by some other skin care, would add no small charm to the attractiveness of many a modern lady.

"After her bath, which she took at five o'clock, Diane rode and hunted for several hours. Then she returned to her bed to rest and read until luncheon. Her meals were light but substantial. In short, she followed a simple health regime to preserve her youthfulness."

"The natural remedy would be to curtail production, with more leisure for everyone, but we shall not arrive at that solution while we continue to regard commercial supremacy as mankind's greatest blessing."

"War is a likelier outcome—not the old war, but a war which will exterminate populations."

"Or destruction may come economically."

"Let a point be reached where work is available to but a small share of the world's peoples and society will be threatened, not quite so quickly, but just as surely."

"Revolution cannot help it paralyze. It does not cure. Indeed, we see social decay today, from race suicide and the packing of families into apartment houses—home life obsolescent."

"I see no hope but in a spiritual revival. I do not mean religious. I mean ethical. Christianity has been so twisted that it no longer means much. What it does mean is not suited to this situation. We need a revival which will turn men from concentration solely upon material production. Why should a worker continue to turn out automobiles after he has already made too many? Why not a few hours of leisure?—which does not necessarily mean lying abed or stuffing one's belly. There is beautiful work to be done, as well as useful."

Tomato Juice For Ex-Tanks
"Dear Doctor: I am 40 years old and have been a steady and at times, extreme drinker since I was 19. Six months ago I cut out the stuff entirely, and never intend to use another drop, because booze has caused me all the trouble that I have ever had, and of recent years, that has been plenty."

"Just lately I discovered that a large drink of cold tomato juice seasoned with pepper and taken before meals, seems to be helpful. It appears steady my nerves and satisfy any lingering desire for strong drink. Is this just imagination, and if it good practice to take such an acid dose when I have always understood that the ex-drinker suffers from hyperacidity."

"There must be many men who, like me, have cut out liquor and are looking for helpful hints that will keep them on the wagon. Incidentally I have a consuming curiosity to know why, after years of handling booze, I should suddenly find that I can't handle it at all. This, too, seems to be a rather general condition among the 'boys.'"

"Have you anything that you would like to say to us, Doctor? We're off the stuff. We intend to stay off. Are there any little natural or artificial helps that we can use? I know, from my own experience, that a man must WANT to stop drinking before he can accomplish anything. The moral decision and the desire to stop, are absolutely essential. A man must lick himself first, and I have done that trick to the queen's taste. If my tomato juice is good practice, I'll continue it. If not, I'll cut that out, too."

"EX-TANK.
Go to your tomato juice, Ex-Tank. You have apparently discovered, for yourself, a scientific fact that is being made use of in many of the hospitals devoted to the cure of the drink and drug habit. They, too, have found that tomato juice, or tomatoes themselves, seem to allay the longing for alcohol. This is not because tomato juice has any alcohol in it or generates any alcohol. Perhaps it is because it is one of the richest foods in vitamins and mineral elements, which undoubtedly the alcoholic diet has been deficient in. (When you cannot get fresh tomatoes, the canned will do just as well, for very little of the vitamins are lost in the modern process of canning.)

The cool acid taste probably is an aid in allaying the craving also. But you should know that the acid of the tomato and that of other acid fruits and vegetables (with the exception of plums, cranberries, prunes, sorrel and rhubarb) is completely oxidized in the body, leaving the alkaline salts which it was combined. This helps to overcome acidosis, which condition in itself may be the basis for many disorders.

But as you are young, we'll hope the habit hasn't been practiced to the extent where you won't fully recover from it. You will want a balanced diet, too, so you had better send for our article on the subject. Success to you, dear boy.

There are many ex-tanks besides alcoholic tanks who would be benefited by taking tomato juice and tomatoes. I am thinking now of the food tanks, especially. If these would substitute tomato juice or a couple of ripe tomatoes (one tomato is 100 calories) for the pounds of candy (simple candy, one pound, 1,600 calories, and with nuts and chocolate, is half as much again, probably, on account of the fat of the nuts), or for other excessively high-calorie foods they consume, they would have considerable help in keeping their weight normal. Tomatoes are recommended in diabetes, in Bright's disease, rheumatism, eczema, inflammation of the eyes, and I could enumerate as many other things, that you would think it was a patent medicine testimonial.

Living and Loving
BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Love and appreciation! What a lot they mean to us. How rich are those who live in such an atmosphere, how poor those who do not. So many people reserve their love and appreciation for themselves and let their loved ones hunger.

It's a busy world and we need a lot of strength to fight our way through and get all our jobs done, but if we will just take a few minutes and then to whisper, "I think you're wonderful," to someone—husband, wife, father, mother, brother, sister—we will never regret it.

A short time ago a woman wrote about a charming friend whose husband was a good man but unromantic. Others admired her, but she did not believe then, when they told her she was lovely, and the good friend wanted her to realize it and back a bit in the warmth of the appreciation. Her letter seemed a bit ambiguous to me, and I told her I was afraid I had not caught her meaning, but answered her the best I could. Now she writes again:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Thank you for your kind letter. I don't think you've caught my meaning, dear. I think as you do, that a self-conscious, vain person does not allure. But from another point of view a person who does not think they have the attraction is not happy. And my friend is not happy. Just as we want food when hungry, she is hungry for appreciation. One could go on guessing all their life, how could one now if never told? It would be a good jolt and eye-opener to that man of hers if some one else gave her a little attention. Her case puts me in mind of a friend of mine. When dying her husband said, 'Mary, you don't know how I've loved you all the years we have lived together.' She said, 'John, how I wish you had told me.'"

"If it had not been for my wings I should not have flown toward the pool, and if I hadn't had webbed feet I should not have found a landing place on land. That is what I meant, of course," said he.

"But the real reason for my being almost frozen to death was a great Two-Legs. There is no use blaming my trouble on anyone or anything else! Of course, you don't want to hear anything horrid about one of your people. I shouldn't wish to hear you out to save his dear ones from harm), but what damage could a bird like I do to a great creature that you call a Man, I should like to know? Not a bit! No, sir, that Two-Legs tried to kill me just for fun!"

EVIDENCE OF ABILITY

A contributor to a radical weekly points out that the first millionaire president of the United States has given six of the ten portfolios in his cabinet to men whose financial rating is stated in seven figures or better. "A millionaire cabinet," writes the champion of the proletariat, "will cast a glamor over the progress of the American people toward their new feudal allegiance." What is worse it may "do violence to American traditions of Jeffersonian simplicity."

A more honest critic would at least have mentioned that Mr. Hoover and four of his six colleagues are what Americans like to know and honor, self-made men. Only two members of the cabinet were born with silver spoons in their mouths and they have added substance and lustre to their inheritances by their own industry. One of these has already served in the cabinet for eight years, with conspicuous ability and devotion to the public interest.

A government should reflect the genius and condition of the people. While we were a nation of wood hewers and drawers of water "Jeffersonian simplicity" was well enough, although nine points of it were studied sham and demagoguery. The tradition of this simplicity survives, as pots of herbs have in English courtrooms to ward off the plague; but it hardly fits the wealthiest nation in the world. Washington was reputed in his day to be the richest man in the country. The majority of the men who dominated the government, down to the proletarian revolution headed by Andrew Jackson, were men of substance, who today would probably be numbered among our 15-000 millionaires. They, too, established a tradition, which we are now reverting to.

The fact that a man has wrested a million dollars from a niggardly and close-fisted world does not necessarily remove him from sympathy with his fellowmen, who are all trying to emulate his example; but it does give promise that he will handle the large problems with which the cabinet has to deal with more competence than may be expected from a man whose contacts with similar problems in private life have been a series of complete or comparative failures.

In Europe they are beginning to use air trains made up of a plane and trailers. It will be terrible at night to have an air freight switching for hours directly overhead.

The railroads of the United States, by the adoption of a policy of not taking on new employees except to fill actual gaps, can give substantially continuous employment to all old employees and prevent the occurrence of the unemployment problem.

To carry out the policy in an effective manner, I should recommend the observance of two principles:

First, there should be no arbitrary age limit.

Of course, no one can forecast the future, but from the tendencies indicated above, it seems that the worst that can be apprehended regarding railway employment is that it will either decrease at all or will increase very slowly, as regards both total employees and as regards practically all the individual occupations.

The cool acid taste probably is an aid in allaying the craving also. But you should know that of other acid fruits and vegetables (with the exception of juice and tomatoes, I am thinking now of the food tanks, especially. If these would substitute tomato juice or a couple of ripe tomatoes (one pound is 100 calories) for the pounds of candy (simple candy, one pound, 1,600 calories, and with nuts and chocolate, is half as much again, probably, on account of the fat of the nuts), or for other excessively high-calorie foods, they would have considerable help in keeping their weight normal. Tomatoes are recommended in diabetes, in Bright's disease, rheumatism, ophthalmia (inflammation of the eyes), and I could enumerate as many other things, that you would think it was a patent medicine testimonial.

But as you are young, we'll hope the habit hasn't been practiced to the extent where, if you won't fully recover from it, you will want a balanced diet, too, so you had better send for our article on the subject. Success to you, dear boy.

There are many ex-tanks besides alcoholic tanks who would be benefited by taking tomato juice and tomatoes. I am thinking now of the food tanks, especially. If these would substitute tomato juice or a couple of ripe tomatoes (one pound is 100 calories) for the pounds of candy (simple candy, one pound, 1,600 calories, and with nuts and chocolate, is half as much again, probably, on account of the fat of the nuts), or for other excessively high-calorie foods, they would have considerable help in keeping their weight normal. ## Living and Loving

Love and appreciation! What a lot they mean to us. How rich are those who live in such an atmosphere, how poor those who do not. So many people reserve their love and appreciation for themselves and let their loved ones hunger.

It's a busy world and we need a lot of strength to fight our way through and get all our jobs done, but if we will just take a few minutes and then to whisper, "I think you're wonderful," to someone—husband, wife, mother, brother, sister—we will never regret it.

A short time ago a woman wrote about a charming friend whose husband was a good man but unromantic. Others admired her, but she did not believe them, when they told her she was lovely, and the good friend wanted her to realize it and bask a bit in the warmth of the appreciation. Her letter seemed a bit ambiguous to me, and I told her I was afraid I had not caught her meaning, but answered her the best I could. Now she writes again:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Thank you for your kind answer to my letter. I don't think you did catch my meaning, dear. I think as you do, that a self-conscious, vain person does not allure. But from another point of view a person who does not think they have the attraction is not happy. And my friend is not happy. Just as we want food when hungry, she is hungry for appreciation. One could go on guessing all their life, how could one now if never told? It would be a good job and eye-opener to that man of hers if some one else gave her a little attention. Her case puts me in mind of a friend of mine, who, dying her husband said, 'Mary, you don't know how I have loved you all the years we have lived together.' She said, 'John, how I wish you had told me.'"

"A TRUE FRIEND"

Wish I could see and talk with you. I'd know better how to diagnose your case. Maybe she wouldn't have the next to tell you what was wrong, though. You are not highbrow, are you? I heard a college boy, whose fond mother had always tried to keep him interested in things very much worth while, remark about a school friend, "Oh, she's too highbrow and cold. Tell her 'brow' part was a bit of a shock to said mother. Are you so afraid the boys will think you are running after them that you are inclined to snub them a bit? Real interested friendliness will both boys and girls. Not incline to be 'bossy,' are you? Judging from your hand-writing I'd say you're not a timid, appealing young thing needing masculine protection. Quite able to 'paddle your own canoe,' aren't you, dear? That's fine. We need just such young women, but it doesn't always make a bit with the boys, foolish things. Look the mind of a friend over and look the boys over. You have the brains to see what the boys need and be what way you differ from the popular girls, then adopt as many of their methods as seem good to you.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

DRIVEN INTO TROUBLE

"Two-legs, the cause of your trouble!" I thought you said it was your webbed feet and wings that got you into difficulty. Suddenly Peter remembered what Duck had said when he first discovered the bird in the water. Duck grinned broadly, as a duck could grin.

"If it had not been for my wings I should not have flown toward the pool, and if I hadn't had webbed feet I should not have found a landing place on land. That is what I meant, of course," said he.

"But the real reason for my being almost frozen to death was a great Two-Legs. There is no defense or to protect his home and children that would have been different (there isn't a Drake or Duck in Quackville that would not tear his enemy's eyes out to save his dear ones from harm), but what damage could a bird like I do to a great creature that you call a Man, I should like to know! Not a bit! No, sir, just Two-Legs tried to kill me just for fun!"

wanted to he could tell an interesting tale, and he wasn't going to miss hearing it if he could help it.

"You are a regular fellow, Duck!" exclaimed the boy, "but you needn't try so hard not to hurt my feelings. Every Two-Legs is not good—I'll bet a cookie that you have met some mean Ducks in your day—and I shall not feel badly about anything you may say about the Human who tried first to take your life. Why did he wish to hurt you?"

"For fun!" quacked Duck, scornfully. "That is just what makes it all so dreadful. If the Two-Legs had tried to kill me in self-defense or to protect his home and children that would have been different (there isn't a Drake or Duck in Quackville that would not tear his enemy's eyes out to save his dear ones from harm), but what damage could a bird like I do to a great creature that you call a Man, I should like to know! Not a bit! No, sir, just Two-Legs tried to kill me just for fun!"

Loughran Keeps Light Heavyweight Title

DEFENDS HIS CROWN BY DECISION OVER WALKER AT CHICAGO

Outpoints Challenger Through Advantage In Weight

CHICAGO, March 29.—Proving the theory that "a good big man can beat a good little man," Tommy Loughran still was light heavyweight boxing champion today. Loughran successfully defended his title here last night by outpointing Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, in ten rounds. Tommy was the heavier by approximately ten pounds and he used the weight to good advantage in pulling Walker into clinches when the latter rushed. Mickey, the slashing bulldog type of fighter, was stopped completely by a great left jab which Loughran used continually.

Loughran won by using a fast stepping, jabbing style of boxing and clinching when he seemed in danger. Loughran clearly was no match for the light heavyweight champion. Try as he might, Mickey could not get inside with his slashing style. On the few occasions when Walker did break through Loughran's simply went into a clinch, cuffed the middleweight with his right and left and danced away.

Loughran was in danger just once during the fight. That was in the fifth round when he apparently went out to slug with Walker. It took Mickey just one minute to prove how far Tommy could get with those tactics.

Before the round was a minute old, Loughran's mouth and forehead were bleeding and the champion was content to clinch and rest a moment. Tommy then backed away and boxed during the remainder of the fight.

Walker surprised the crowd by not starting with his customary rush. The middleweight started the fight by boxing and Tommy won three rounds before Walker changed tactics.

Walker took the fourth round by opening with his bulldog attack. Apparently he surprised Tommy at the start of the round and won it before the champion could get his left hand working.

Loughran lost the fifth by trying to slug and Walker obtained an even break in the sixth by rocking Tommy with a series of rights and lefts to the head when the champion slugged.

The middleweight won the seventh and the eighth was even. Walker began to tire in the eighth and seemed slow in the ninth which Loughran won by a large margin.

By losing Walker lost a chance to achieve an honor held only by Bob Fitzsimmons. Had he won he would have become a three title man.

Chicago's largest indoor crowd saw the fight. Approximately 20,000 people crowded into Chicago's new stadium and Promoter Paddy Harmon said the gate receipts would exceed $225,000.

Loughran was guaranteed 55 per cent of the gross and he must pay Walker $50,000 out of that. In the semi-windup Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa, outpointed Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., in ten rounds.

Forty champion teams from all parts of the country have been nominated for the University of Chicago's eleventh annual and perhaps last basketball inter-scholastic tournament at Chicago, Ill., April 2 to 5.

These post-season tournaments may soon be a thing of the past. They are looked upon with disfavor because of the fact the long trip and the games keep students away from their school work for three or four days.

Ohio for the first time in many years, will not be represented, as under a recent ruling of the Ohio High School Athletic Association Dayton Stivers, state champion, will not be permitted to compete.

Indications of the past five years point to middle-western and southern teams at the leading contenders for the national title this season.

Back in 1917 when the event was first started, middle-west teams exhibited a brand of basketball superior to any other section.

Improvement of the play of teams from all parts of the country has been one of the chief results of the Chicago tournament inasmuch as the Maroon tourney has without a doubt been a laboratory of basketball for visiting coaches. Types of how the game is played in every section of the land have been demonstrated. The contestants are the best styles of play and today the tactics of the teams are practically uniform.

HEADPIN BOWLING TOURNEY TO OPEN MONDAY AT RECREATION

A headpin bowling tournament, sponsored by The Bryant Motor Sales Co., local Ford agency, at the Recreation Parlor, will open next Monday and close April 15, it is announced.

During the fifteen days every bowler in the city will have an opportunity to compete. Each minerite artist is entitled to roll one game but the game must be bowled in the presence of a referee. There is no entrance fee.

Four prizes will be awarded to the four bowlers finishing highest in the tourney.

Under the rules of such a tournament, each entrant rolls twelve balls. It is possible to crash ten pins each time and a perfect score is therefore 120. The only requirement is that bowlers must hit the head pin first or that particular shot is not counted, resulting in a loss of all pins knocked down in that frame.

Operation of through cars from Dayton to Yellow Springs via Xenia will be started Sunday morning, March 31 by the Dayton-Xenia Railway Co., it is announced.

In order for the traction cars to turn around a "Y" has been installed at Yellow Springs.

The company will operate a connecting shuttle car from Springfield to Yellow Springs.

Approximately $10,000 has already been expended in laying new tracks on the Springfield-Yellow Springs system and the work is still incomplete, it is reported.

Eventually through cars will be operated from Dayton to Springfield via Xenia, according to present plans.

One or more cars have been taken off the Springfield line to be repaired.

Hourly traction service from Xenia to Dayton will be continued.

WALTER WIKE WILL LEAVE POST OFFICE

Appointment of an assistant postmaster to succeed Walter Wike, 135 High St., veteran postal employee who will retire in May, will not be made for several weeks, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer.

Mr. Wike, who first became connected with the Xenia postoffice in 1873, will retire from active duty at the age of seventy-two years. Information revealed this week regarding an appointment to fill the vacancy is discredited by an announcement that a selection of a successor has not been made. The appointment will be made by Postmaster C. S. Frazer from the ranks of employees.

Robert and Martin Nooks, both colored, jointly indicted for theft by the January grand jury at its special session two weeks ago, went on trial together before a jury in Common Pleas Court Friday.

They are accused of the theft of a hog valued at $25 from Fred Williamson last February 4. Attorney C. W. Whitmer is defense counsel.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED by Phil

Because of popular prices which prevailed the winter boxing season at Madison Square Garden, which recently came to an end, was an outstanding financial success, gross receipts amounting to approximately a million and a quarter dollars.

The stock of the garden has soared. The profit was commensurate with the popularity of the new scale since the Garden netted about 30 per cent of the "gate".

In view of the fact that not a single champion of any division fought in the Garden from October 5, when Tom McArdie became match-maker, until March 22, when the season closed, this remarkable profit is almost unbelievable.

Popular prices permitted the big sports arena to enjoy its most prosperous winter despite the fact that weekly shows were made up, for the most part, by comparative second raters.

The financial success shown during the winter season substantiated the opinion held by Humbert J. Fugazy, the late Tex Rickard's only rival in Greater New York, who stuck with the idea that popular prices would win. It had been the opinion of Rickard that Madison Square Garden should keep its prices above those of the smaller clubs.

Eventually, or perhaps inevitably the Garden fell in line and prices ranged from $1 to $5 for a majority of the shows it put on during the winter. This maneuver proved instantly successful, aided and abetted by skillful match-making by McArdie.

Among the most outstanding successes, none of which involving championship or any particular ballyhoo, were these:

Nov. 16—Joe Glick vs. Joe Gans, $56,683.64.

No. 30—Tuffy Griffiths vs. Jim Braddock, $53,836.87.

Dec. 14—Al Singer vs. Tony Canzoneri, $59,955.02.

Dec. 28—Ace Hudkins vs. Rene De Vos, $64,499.44.

Jan. 11—Jimmy McLarnin vs. Joe Glick, $63,574.80.

Jan. 25—Jack Sharkey vs. K. O. Christner, $73,609.19.

Feb. 1—Max Schmeling vs. Johnny Risko, $66,220.92.

Feb. 22—Paolino vs. K. O. Christner, $81,504.64.

Mar. 1—Jimmy McLarnin vs. Joe Glick, $71,797.81.

Mar. 22—Jimmy McLarnin vs. Ray Miller, $83,000.

The Buicks continued their pursuit of the second-place Red Wing Co. by winning three straight games from the tail-end McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co. team in a Recreation League bowling match Thursday night. The Buicks are one full game behind the Red Wings and the two teams meet in a match next week that will probably decide second place. Malavazos led the winners with a series of 674, including a single game of 258. J. Purdon led the losers with 509. Box score:

Loughran Keeps Light Heavyweight Title

DEFENDS HIS CROWN BY DECISION OVER WALKER AT CHICAGO

Outpoints Challenger Through Advantage In Weight

CHICAGO, March 29.—Proving the theory that "a good big man can beat a good little man," Tom Loughran still was light heavyweight boxing champion today. Loughran successfully defended his title here last night by outpointing Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, in ten rounds.

Tommy was the heavier by approximately ten pounds and he used the weight to good advantage in pulling Walker into clinches when the latter rushed. Mickey, the slashing bulldog type of fighter, was stopped completely by a great left jab which Loughran used continually.

Loughran won by using a fast stepping, jabbing style of boxing and clinching when he seemed in danger.

Walker clearly was no match for the light heavyweight champion. Try as he might, Mickey could not get inside with his slashing style.

On the few occasions when Walker did break through Loughran's simply went into a clinch, cuffed the middleweight with his right and left and danced away.

Loughran was in danger just once during the fight. That was in the fifth round when he apparently went out to slug with Walker. It took Mickey just one minute to prove how far Tommy could get with those tactics.

Before the round was a minute old, Loughran's mouth and forehead were bleeding and the champion was content to clinch and rest a moment.

Tommy then backed away and boxed during the remainder of the fight.

Walker surprised the crowd by not starting with his customary rush. The middleweight started the fight by boxing and Tommy won three rounds before Walker changed tactics.

Loughran lost the fifth by trying to slug and Walker obtained an even break in the sixth by rocking Tommy with a series of rights and lefts to the head when the champion slugged.

The middleweight won the seventh and the eighth was even. Walker began to tire in the eighth and seemed slow in the ninth while Loughran won by a large margin.

By losing Walker lost a chance to achieve an honor held only by Bob Fitzsimmons. Had he won he would have become a three time man.

Chicago's largest indoor crowd saw the fight. Approximately 20,000 people crowded into Chicago's new stadium and Promoter Paddy Harmon said the gate receipts would exceed $225,000.

Loughran was guaranteed 55 per cent of the gross and he must pay Walker $50,000 out of that. In the semi-windup Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa, outpointed Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., in ten rounds.

Ohio for the first time in many years, will not be represented, as under a recent ruling of the Ohio High School Athletic Association Dayton Stivers, state champion, will not be permitted to compete.

Indications of the past five years point to middleweight and south-east teams at the leading contenders for the national title this season.

Back in 1917 when the event was first started, middleweight teams exhibited a brand of basketball superior to any other section.

Improvement of the play of teams from all parts of the country has been one of the chief results of the Chicago tournament inasmuch as the Maroon tourney has without a doubt been a laboratory of basketball for visiting coaches. Types of how the game is played in every section of the land have been demonstrated. The contestants see the best styles of play and today the tactics of the teams are practically uniform.

Bowling

The Buicks continued their pursuit of the second-place Red Wing Co. by winning three straight games from the tall-end McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co. team in a Recreation League bowling match Thursday night. The Buicks are one full game behind the Red Wings and the two teams meet in a match next week that will probably decide second place. Malavazos led the winners with a series of 67's, including a single game of 258. J. Purdon led the losers with 509. Box score:

HEADPIN BOWLING TOURNEY TO OPEN MONDAY AT RECREATION

A headpin bowling tournament, sponsored by The Bryant Motor Sales Co., local Ford agency, at the Recreation Parlor, will open next Monday and close April 15, it is announced.

During the fifteen days every bowler in the city will have an opportunity to compete. Each miniature artist is entitled to roll one game but the game must be bowled in the presence of a referee. There is no entrance fee.

Four prizes will be awarded to the four bowlers finishing highest in the tourney.

Under the rules of such a tournament, each entrant rolls twelve balls. It is possible to crash ten pins each time and a perfect score is therefore 120. The only requirement is that bowlers must hit the head pin first or that particular shot is not counted, resulting in a loss of all pins knocked down in that frame.

THROUGH TRACTION SERVICE TO START HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Operation of through cars from Dayton to Yellow Springs via Xenia will be started Sunday morning, March 31 by the Dayton-Xenia Railway Co., it is announced.

In order for the traction cars to turn around a "Y" has been installed at Yellow Springs.

The company will operate a connecting shuttle car from Springfield to Yellow Springs.

Approximately $10,000 has already been expended in laying new ties on the Springfield-Yellow Springs system and the work is still incomplete, it is reported.

Eventually through cars will be operated from Dayton to Springfield via Xenia, according to present plans.

One or more cars have been taken off the Springfield line to be repaired.

Hourly traction service from Xenia to Dayton will be continued.

WALTER WIKI WILL LEAVE POST OFFICE

Appointment of an assistant postmaster to succeed Walter W. Wiki, 135 High St., veteran postal employee who will retire in May, will not be made for several weeks, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer.

Mr. Wiki, who first became connected with the Xenia postoffice in 1873, will retire from active duty at the age of seventy-two years. Information revealed this week regarding an appointment to fill the vacancy is discredited by an announcement that a selection of a successor has not been made. The appointment will be made by Postmaster C. S. Frazer from the ranks of employees.

FARM LEADERS HERE FOR FUNERAL RITES OF OSCAR BRADFUTE

Brief tributes were paid by S. H. Thompson, Chicago, Ill., president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Dr. W. O. Thompson, Columbus, president emeritus of the Ohio State University, to the late Oscar E. Bradfute, internationally known farm leader, at his funeral services held Thursday afternoon at the Second United Presbyterian Church.

L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, acted as one of the pallbearers, and many prominent agriculturalists from all parts of Ohio attended the service. Mr. Bradfute was formerly president of the American and Ohio Farm Bureau Federations.

Services were conducted by the Rev. H. B. McElree, D. D., pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. L. L. Gray, Jamestown, and the Rev. J. G. C. Webster, Clifton.

Grouped about the casket were floral tributes from farm and livestock associations all over the country and from public and private friends of the dead farm leader.

Among well-known farm leaders who attended the services were: members of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; Dean Alfred Vivian, of Ohio State University School of Agriculture; George R. Eastwood, of the organization school, Ohio Farm Bureau; J. R. Alliger, state organization department, Ohio Farm Bureau; G. F. Ketter, president of the Ohio Livestock Association; Vice-president Odesser, of the Ohio Farm Bureau; S. G. Lyle, president of Ohio Livestock Producers' Association; L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange; A. R. Wead, publicity director of Ohio Farm Bureau, and Miss Verna Ellinger of the Ohio Farm Bureau.

LAWRENCE DAVIS APPOINTED COUNTY ROAD PATROLMAN HERE

Appointment of Lawrence Alvin Davis, Dayton Ave., as county road patrolman, effective Monday, April 1, was announced Friday by Sheriff Ohmer Tate.

His selection was made from a list of nearly twenty applicants. Davis succeeds to a position made vacant last January 31 by the resignation of O. H. Cornwell, who became military instructor at the O. S. and S. O. Home, a position he formerly held.

MRS. EVA MARTIN REMOVED BY DEATH

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Martin, 37, wife of Charles Martin, Clarksville, who died Wednesday night following six weeks' illness, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Clarksville M. E. Church followed by burial in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Martin was formerly Miss Eva Liming, daughter of Madison Liming, Port William, who survives her with two step-children: Everett of Xenia and Mrs. Floyd Norris, Dayton. A brother, Ralph Liming, and a sister, Mrs. Elma Urton, live near Port William.

The appointment was approved Friday by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy and Davis was sworn in by Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam. Davis will be a motorcycle deputy. His duties including the patrolling of county roads on a motorcycle and acting in the capacity of a deputy sheriff.

Davis is the third appointee to fill the position since its creation by Sheriff Tate February 1, 1927. He was formerly a commissioned officer in Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, serving four years as a member of the local guard unit. He eventually was elevated to the position of second lieutenant, resigning in February, 1927. He was also formerly employed by the H. D. Hole Co., local poultry firm.

HOW CAN WE IMPROVE THIS OLDSMOBILE for 1929

Before changing Oldsmobile at all, the engineering staff of the Olds Motor Works consulted Oldsmobile owners, dealers, salesmen, automotive experts, and engineers at the General Motors Proving Ground...inviting criticism.

They found that Oldsmobile was too good to change fundamentally—that it was ahead of its time—that it offered many features not to be found in cars within hundreds of dollars of its price.

But certain improvements were recommended. And these have been made.

Piston pins are now pressure-lubricated—a feature hitherto characteristic of high-priced cars. And Oldsmobile's big high-compression engine now develops 62 horsepower.

Radiator shutter design was improved. The shutters now run entirely to the top of the shell.

Oldsmobile has adopted the new adjustable front seat, recently introduced by Fisher, which may be quickly and easily regulated.

Interiors have been made even more luxurious. Upholsteries are richer. Seat cushions are deeper and softer.

Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment.

And in addition, Oldsmobile announces a substantial price reduction!

FARM LEADERS HERE FOR FUNERAL RITES OF OSCAR BRADFUTE

Brief tributes were paid by S. H. Thompson, Chicago, Ill., president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Dr. W. O. Thompson, Columbus, president emeritus of Ohio State University, to the late Oscar E. Bradfute, internationally known farm leader, at his funeral services held Thursday afternoon at the Second United Presbyterian Church.

L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, acted as one of the pallbearers, and many prominent agriculturists from all parts of Ohio attended the service. Mr. Bradfute was formerly president of the American and Ohio Farm Bureau Federations.

Services were conducted by the Rev. H. B. McElree, D. D., pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. L. L. Gray, Jamestown, and the Rev. J. G. C. Webster, Clifton.

Grouped about the casket were floral tributes from farm and livestock associations all over the country and from public and private friends of the dead farm leader.

Among well-known farm leaders who attended the services were: members of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; Dean Alfred Vivian, of Ohio State University School of Agriculture; George R. Eastwood, of the organization school, Ohio Farm Bureau; J. R. Allgier, state organization department, Ohio Farm Bureau; G. F. Kettner, president of the Ohio Livestock Association; Vice-president Odasser, of the Ohio Farm Bureau; S. G. Lyle, president of Ohio Livestock Producers' Association; L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange; A. R. Wead, publicity director of Ohio Farm Bureau, and Miss Verna Ellsinger of the Ohio Farm Bureau.

LAWRENCE DAVIS APPOINTED COUNTY ROAD PATROLMAN HERE

Appointment of Lawrence Alvin Davis, Dayton Ave., as county road patrolman, effective Monday, April 1, was announced Friday by Sheriff Olmer Tate.

His selection was made from a list of nearly twenty applicants. Davis succeeds to a position made vacant last January 31 by the resignation of O. H. Cornwell, who became military instructor at the O. S. and S. O. Home, a position he formerly held.

MRS. EVA MARTIN REMOVED BY DEATH

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Martin, 37, wife of Charles Martin, Clarksville, who died Wednesday night following six weeks' illness, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m., at the Clarksville M. E. Church followed by burial in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Martin was formerly Miss Eva Liming, daughter of Madison Liming, Port William, who survives her with two step-children: Everett of Xenia and Mrs. Floyd Norris, Dayton. A brother, Ralph Liming, and a sister, Mrs. Elma Urton, live near Port William.

The appointment was approved Friday by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy and Davis was sworn in by Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam. Davis will be a motorcycle deputy, his duties including the patrolling of county roads on a motorcycle and acting in the capacity of a deputy sheriff.

Davis is the third appointee to fill the position since its creation by Sheriff Tate February 1, 1927. He was formerly a commissioned officer in Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, serving four years as a member of the local guard unit. He eventually was elevated to the position of second lieutenant, resigning in February, 1927. He was also formerly employed by the H. B. Hole Co., local poultry firm.

GRANGE WILL BRING VIVIAN LECTURE TO XENIA NEXT MONTH

Dean Alfred Vivian, of the agriculture college of Ohio State University, will present his lecture and motion picture, explaining the "Symbolism of the Grange" at the City Hall Theater here Monday, April 22, it was decided at a meeting of Pomona Grange with Xenia Grange Wednesday all day.

Final arrangements were also completed for an exchange of lecture programs between Greene and Warren Counties, a plan which Greene County Pomona has initiated and projects outlined for the Granges this year by the officer's committee, consisting of the Pomona master and lecturer, Grange deputy and subordinate Grange masters, were adopted at the meeting.

The business session was held in the morning, presided over by Guy Gordon, master, and consisted of reports from subordinate Granges. A covered dish dinner was served at noon and unfinished business was completed at a short afternoon session. Plans were laid for a Pomona initiation at Xenia Grange Hall in June, but the date has not been fixed.

The lecture hour, in charge of Mrs. Elsie J. Campbell, Pomona lecturer, follows:

Musical selection by Xenia Grange Orchestra, directed by Mrs. Fudge.

Reading by Mrs. George Martindale of Cedar Grange;

Piano solo by Stephen Stedman of Charity Grange;

One-act play, "An Airplane Passenger Station", presented by members of Xenia Grange;

Vocal duet by the Misses DeWesse and Stevens, accompanied by Mrs. Murray, at the piano, all from Jamestown Grange;

Musical selections by Xenia Grange Orchestra.

The next meeting will be at Spring Valley, at which time Warren County Pomona will give the first lecture hour program of the exchange arranged between the two counties.

RAILROAD ORDERED TO CHANGE GRADE

Seeking a renewal of its street lighting contract in the city of Xenia, the Dayton Power and Light Co., through E. H. Heathman, Xenia manager, notified City Commission Thursday night that it will make a new proposition to the city at the next commission meeting April 11. The contract expires at the end of 1929.

Except to instruct City Solicitor J. A. Finney to advise the Pennsylvania Railroad that it must repair its crossing on W. Market St. to conform with the grade of the street, or else change the street grade to conform with the rails, the commission transacted only routine business.

All commissioners were present at the meeting.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

John Henry Meno, Jamestown, was found not guilty of assault by a jury in Common Pleas Court Thursday afternoon. The jury deliberated about an hour before returning the acquittal verdict. Meno was indicted by the January grand jury at its first special session two weeks ago for an alleged assault made upon Walter J. Sorman last January 28.

EAST END NEWS

I had been troubled with rheumatism all over my body, and my legs, arms and feet were badly swollen. I would not be able to walk for two hours after arising in the morning. At times the pains were almost unbearable, and I could hardly stand it. I was unable to get any relief, although I had tried many different remedies and treatments.

"The laugh is now on my friends. The first week of treatment with this new medicine proved to me that I had at last found the right treatment. Gradually the pains became less and less, and when the sixth bottle was finished, I was entirely rid of the terrible rheumatism that had distressed me for years. The friends who ridiculed Konjola now praise it, after seeing what it has done for me."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Gradually the pains became less and less, and when the sixth bottle was finished, I was entirely rid of the terrible rheumatism that had distressed me for years. The friends who ridiculed Konjola now praise it, after seeing what it has done for me."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

YOUTH OLDER THAN HE ADMITTED; HELD FOR GRAND JURY

On the testimony of his parents that instead of being 16 years old as he claimed he is in reality much nearer 23, Thomas Clifford Tipton, Washington C. H., held in the County Jail on charges of chicken stealing, has been ordered turned over to Sheriff Ohmer Tate to be held for investigation by the grand jury, under $500 bond, by Juvenile Judge S. C. Wright.

Juvenile court authorities learned from the court testimony of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Tipton, Washington C. H., that the youth will be 23 years of age May 21. Tipton first gave his name as Emerson when arrested by Sheriff Benham of Clark County and as Clifford to local authorities.

It was also learned that Andrew Fleming, his brother-in-law, also held on chicken stealing charges, who said he was 18 years old at the time of his arrest, is actually 25. Both are said to be on parole from the Illinois state reform school.

MRS. W. R. CRAVEN ON STRANDED LINER

Mrs. William R. Craven, Dayton, former Xenian, and her husband were among passengers stranded aboard the Cunard liner Transylvania, which went aground early Thursday night.

For a time there was anxiety concerning their safety but dispatches later in the evening reported the ship had docked safely in Cherbourg port and that all passengers, including a number of Americans, were on their way to various destinations shortly after the liner docked.

Mr. and Mrs. Craven were on a cruise of the Mediterranean sea.
They sailed from New York January 30. Mrs. Craven, who is well known in Xenia, was formerly Mrs.
J. M. Dillon. Her husband is chairman of the board of the Dayton Savings and Trust Co. and vice-president of the W. H. Kieffaber Co.

She set her jaw firmly and took her cue from him. She would pretend she had never seen him before.

He devoted half a dozen letters,
Betty was very glad, as she had difficulty in concentrating. He speeded up a bit on the second letter, and became faster in each succeeding dictation. Betty thought he was trying to speak so rapidly that she would have to interrupt him. She was able to take the last letter without this however. From the moment she began to write she did not raise her eyes from the work.

When she had finished he said:
"Type these and bring them back to me, Miss Brown. I would like to see the work this morning. Here are the letters. Turn them over and make four carbon on the backs so when they are filed the reply will be on the back of the letter."

"I am busy just now, Jim," he said to Saunders. "Show Miss Brown her quarters and I'll give her some dictation in a little while." He bowed courteously to Betty in dismissal.

In the little office which might or might not remain hers, Betty slumped into a chair while Saunders went over the matter of the buzzer, which Miss Anderson had already explained. Then he left the room.

Andy Adair! So this was the vice president! This was the Andy of which the men had spoken yesterday. She was to be Andy Adair's secretary. Or was she? She was in a mental turmoil. Thoughts raced through her mind so rapidly that a new one came before the last was completed.

Andy had been as cold as ice
after the first shock of seeing her.
Did he want her to stay? Did she want to stay? Andy was a part of a life she had determinedly put behind her. Would he want her to go out with him if she stayed on? She recalled with shame that she once debated if she would allow Andy to furnish an apartment for her.
Would he try to renew that proposition? What would he do?

The buzzer on her desk sounded.
Picking up a note book and pencil
she went into his room.

"Take some dictation, please," Miss Brown," he said formally. He raised his eyes, glancing at a clerk busy at a file cabinet. Betty was uncertain whether the glance was a gesture to her or involuntary.
She set her jaw firmly and took her cue from him. She would pretend she had never seen him before.

CHAPTER I

Betty was the first employee to arrive at the office the next morning. As she did not know where she was to work she sat down in the small reception room just inside
the entrance. After a bit Mr. Saunders came in and told her to come to his office and wait until her new boss came to work. He would introduce her.

In his office she met a Miss Anderson, who had been substituting
as secretary to her new employer.
"You will like working for the vice president, Miss Brown," she said. "He is considerate and very pleasant. I came down with Mr.
Larkin, the sales manager, this morning. He said he was going to steal you from him."

"I like Mr. Larkin," laughed
Betty. "Maybe I wouldn't mind being stolen."

"Oh, I don't know. Perhaps you didn't know that the vice president
isn't married!"

"Well, that's something in his favor, anyway."

"Suppose I take you into your new office. You have a small room
to yourself and no one to bother
you when you work. That's another nice thing about it. Mr. Saunders here almost bothers me to death."

Saunders smiled at the jest, as Betty was escorted into the new office she hoped to occupy for a long time.

The small office had one door
opening into the general corridor,
which ran the length of the suite;
another opened into the office of the vice president. It was furnished with a new desk and typewriter.
Miss Anderson explained that one
touch on the buzzer summoned
Betty to the adjoining room, and that she was supposed to be ready
to answer it at any time.

She left Betty to explore her new quarters and await a summons. In half an hour, however, Mr. Saunders came in from the outer office
and said: "Miss Brown, put on your prettiest smile! Your new boss is here and I will take you in
and introduce you."

Smoothing down her skirt, Betty followed him into the adjoining office. Seated at the desk a man checked over some papers. His attention was concentrated on the work. Not until Saunders spoke did he raise his eyes.

"This is Miss Brown, your new secretary, Mr. Adair," he said.

Betty's knees became weak. She felt behind her for the back of a chair. Andy Adair! As he looked into her face, the pencil in his hand clattered to the glass desk top and rolled to the floor. Before he spoke he leaned over to recover
it. When his face reappeared it was a mask.

"Good morning, Miss Brown," he said, calmly. Betty noticed a rapid dilation of his nostrils. She remembered it as an indication that Andy was angry.

"Good morning, Mr. Adair," she answered.

"I am busy just now, Jim," he said to Saunders. "Show Miss Brown her quarters and I'll give her some dictation in a little while." He bowed courteously to Betty in dismissal.

In the little office which might
or might not remain hers, Betty

CHAPTER I

Betty was the first employee to arrive at the office the next morning. As she did not know where she was to work she sat down in the
small reception room just inside
the entrance. After a bit Mr. Saunders came in and told her to come
to his office and wait until her new boss came to work. He would introduce her.

In his office she met a Miss Anderson, who had been substituting
as secretary to her new employer.
"You will like working for the vice president, Miss Brown," she said. "He is considerate and very pleasant. I came down with Mr.
Larkin, the sales manager, this morning. He says he is going to try to steal you from him."

"I like Mr. Larkin," laughed
Betty. "Maybe I wouldn't mind being stolen."

"Oh, I don't know. Perhaps you didn't know that the vice president
isn't married!"
"Well, that's something in his
favor, anyway."

"Suppose I take you into my new office. You have a small room
to yourself and no one to bother
you when you work. That's another thing about it. Mr. Saunders
here almost bothers me to death."

Saunders smiled at the jest, as Betty was escorted into the new office she hoped to occupy for a long time.

The small office had one door
opening into the general corridor,
which ran the length of the suite;
another opened into the office of
the vice president. It was furnished with a new desk and typewriter.
Miss Anderson explained that one
touch on the buzzer summoned
Betty to the adjoining room, and
that she was supposed to be ready
to answer it at any time.

quarters and await a summons. In half an hour, however, Mr. Saunders came in from the outer office
and said: "Miss Brown, put on your prettiest smile! Your new boss is here and I will take you in
and introduce you."

Smoothing down her skirt, Betty followed him into the adjoining office. Seated at the desk a man checked over some papers. His attention was concentrated on the work. Not until Saunders spoke did
he raise his eyes.

"This is Miss Brown, your new secretary, Mr. Adair," he said.
Betty's knees became weak. She felt behind her for the back of a chair. Andy Adair! As he looked into her face, the pencil in his hand clattered to the glass desk
top and rolled to the floor. Before
he spoke he leaned over to recover
it. When his face reappeared it was a mask.

"Good morning, Miss Brown," he said, calmly. Betty noticed a rapid dilation of his nostrils. She remembered it as an indication that Andy
was angry.

"Good morning, Mr. Adair," she answered.
"I am busy just now, Jim," he said to Saunders. "Show Miss Brown her quarters and I'll give her some dictation in a little while." He bowed courteously to Betty in dismissal.

In the little office which might
or might not remain hers, Betty
slumped into a chair while Saunders went over the matter of the buzzer, which Miss Anderson had already explained. Then he left the room.

Andy Adair! So this was the vice president! This was the Andy of which the men had spoken yesterday. She was to be Andy Adair's secretary. Or was she? She was in a mental turmoil. Thoughts raced through her mind so rapidly that a new one came before the last was completed.

Andy had been as cold as ice
after the first shock of seeing her.
Did he want her to stay? Did she want to stay? Andy was a part of a life she had determined put behind her. Would he want her to go out with him if she stayed on? She recalled with shame that she once
debated if she would allow Andy to furnish an apartment for her. He would be free to renew that proposition. What would he do?

The buzzer on her desk sounded.
Picking up a note book and pencil
she went into his room.

"Take some dictation, please,"
Miss Brown," he said formally.
He raised his eyes, glancing at a clerk busy at a file cabinet. Betty was uncertain whether the glance was a gesture to her or involuntary.

She set her jaw firmly and took her cue from him. She would pretend she had never seen him before.

He dictated half a dozen letters.
He was very slow at first, for which she was glad, as she had difficulty in concentrating. He speeded up a bit on the second letter, and became faster in each succeeding dictation. Betty thought
he was trying to speak so rapidly
that she would have to interrupt
him. She was able to take the last letter without this however. From the moment she began to write she did not raise her eyes from the work.

When she had finished he said:
"Type these and bring them back to me, Miss Brown. I would like to see the work this morning. Here are the letters. Turn them over and make your carbons on the backs so when they are filed the reply will
be on the back of the letter."

"Yes, sir," answered Betty, and walked back to her room.

Again he had not recognized the fact that he had held her in his arms and told her he loved her. He pretended to have forgotten that he had almost killed her in his automobile! She was unreasonably angry with him. Going to her business-like, was he? She would show him a trick or two on the business-like attitude!

She uncovered the typewriter and, slipping a carbon sheet between the letters and the blank sheets, she typed the six letters accurately and rapidly. When she finished she walked into the room adjoining with the papers in her hand.

"Some trouble, Miss Brown?" he asked, coldly.
"No, Mr. Adair. They are finished." She laid them on the corner of his desk, placed a paper weight on them so the buzzing fan would not scatter them, and walked out without looking at him.

Her hands clenched fiercely; she felt she was about to cry. That

The movie people ain't done right by our little Davey Lee if critics who have seen his first starring picture, "Sonny Boy," may be believed.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. WILLIAM CRAWFORD ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Savilla Jane Charles Crawford, 56, wife of William E. Crawford, died at her home on S. De- troit St., Thursday night at 10:25 o'clock following an illness of six months. She had been in failing health for the past year, her condition becoming serious during the last thirteen weeks.

Mrs. Crawford was born near West Union, O., March 31, 1872 and would have reached her fifty-seventh birthday, had she lived until Sunday. Her early life was spent on the home farm. She married William E. Crawford, August 24, 1890, and she and her husband moved to Xenia twenty-five years ago and have since made their home here.

Mrs. Crawford is survived by her husband and four children: Grover of Xenia, Cecil and Miss Dorothy at home and Harold of Akron. Six brothers, Frank, Silas, Glen, Luther, Ross and Wesley Charles and two sisters, Mrs. L. P. Pennywitt and Mrs. William R. Holmes also survive with two grandchildren.

She was a member of the Friends Church and was active in church work until ill health prevented her attendance. She was also a member of the D. of A. Lodge.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Friends Church with burial in Woodland Cemetery.

ROSS HIGH JUNIORS WILL PRESENT PLAY

"That's One on Bill" a three-act comedy will be presented by the junior class of Ross Twp. High School in the school auditorium Wednesday evening, April 3, at 8 o'clock.

The play deals with money and marriage. "Uncle Jimmie" plans to bestow fifty thousand dollars on his nephew "Bill", if he obeys his uncle's choice for his marriage. The story is full of humorous situations, with a satisfactory and surprising ending.

Those taking part are as follows: Marvin Agnor as "Uncle Jimmie" a young bachelor; William Reid as "Bill Harly", his nephew; Richard Arment as "Battling Bennie Bozo" a pugilist; Russell Gordon, as "Harry Dover", engaged to "Lil"; Woodrow Kloutz, as "Ned Collins (Puffy)" too rich to work; Frances Huffman, as "Patricia Niles, Patricia Pansy La-Gloria"; Helen Turnbull as "Lil Harly" her friend; Martha Lackey as "Mab Allen", uncle's choice for "Bill"; Helen Fletcher as "Mrs. Harly", mother of "Bill" and "Lil", and Opal Steen, as "Rosie" the maid.

TAKEN TO COLUMBUS

Arrested here by police Wednesday night on a warrant issued by Columbus authorities charging him with robbing the home of Richard Peatross, 104 N. Ninth St., Columbus, of household goods valued at $117, last October 5, Harley Watson, 31, colored, this city, was returned to that city Thursday afternoon by Detective Jones, Columbus, to face charges of burglary and larceny.

Pedestrians Need Signal Lights Warning Motorists of Presence

Man in dark clothing No highway lighting Headlights burning Man not visible

Man in light clothing No highway lighting Headlights burning Man barely visible

Man in dark clothing With highway lighting Headlights burning Man clearly visible

After-dark tests of street lighting specialists of the General Electric Company have determined that pedestrians are almost invisible to motorists upon unlighted roads, even with automobile headlights playing full upon them, unless the pedestrians wear white clothes. Now you can't wear white all the time, so your chances of being hit are good.

In the first of three experiments a man in dark clothes stood about a hundred feet in front of an automobile. The man could not be seen from the car and in the ordinary course of events he would not be discovered by the motorist until the latter was so close to him that only a very sudden stop would prevent him from being run over. In the second experiment a man wearing light-colored clothes and holding a white handkerchief stood at the same distance and could be made out in plenty of time for the automobilist to avoid him, and the white handkerchief was particularly easy to pick out.

In the third experiment the highway lights were turned on and the pedestrian, wearing dark clothes, was vividly revealed in silhouette against the flow of the lights.

The obvious conclusion reached by the lighting specialists was that in only two ways can a motorist discern pedestrians upon highways at a distance after dark. They can be seen if they wear light-colored clothes, preferably all-white clothes, or if the highway had adequate highway lights.

So when you're walking in the country either dress for the occasion or carry some convenient signal or other such as a red lantern or maybe a nice little white flag. It is getting so one can't walk around at night now without being nudged off the street by some passing autoist, so buy a car and do your own nudging.

GRADE CROSSINGS

Editor,

The Gazette:

Two people killed at the James-town Pike crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad recently emphasizes the need for eliminating the hazard at this crossing.

The railroad has the crossing equipped with warning signs and an automatic signal bell, but human nature is such that autoists must be more vigorously startled out of their carelessness. The roar of an auto motor frequently drowns out the sound of the crossing bell, especially in a closed car, and allowing for a slight carelessness on the part of the driver, the bell affords little protection.

The flash signals that have the appearance of a swinging red lantern, however, seem to be more efficient and are being used at dangerous crossings everywhere. I believe it would not take much effort to convince the railroad that substitution of these lights for the warning bell, would give better protection at the crossing and eliminate the death trap that now exists there. The railroad would certainly be more interested in this change than in overhauling its crossing and the results could be brought about much quicker and perhaps human life saved during the summer time when traffic is heavy.
